UP, UP, UP! — Chart indicates how food costs have continued to rise over the past several months. According to the Labor Department, the food price index for February was 131.1 of the 1967 base — meaning it cost $13.11 to buy that $10 bought in 1967.

Boycott Planned Despite Price Fix

By WILLIAM GILLEN
Associated Press Writer

Meat boycott organizers say they still plan a week-long consumer action despite the meat price ceilings ordered by President Nixon.

Leaders of the housewives' revolt expressed pleasure with the President's Thursday night announcement on the ceilings, but said they were going ahead with the boycott starting Sunday because food prices are still too high.

The ceilings apply to beef, pork and lamb prices at about their present levels.

Meanwhile, the president of the National Farmers Organization said meetings of farmers in all major meat-producing areas would be held tonight to decide what action to take. The group had told its members on Wednesday to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market.

Directors of the American National Cattlemen's Association were to meet today in Denver to discuss the ceiling announcement.

June Donovan of Los Angeles, one of the founders of Fight Inflation Together (FIT), declared after listening to the President's speech: "This is not enough. We boycott!"

In the past month FIT chapters have sprung up around the country. Many of them already are boycotting meat and poultry on certain days of the week and all are gearing up for the week-long buyers' strike.

"The boycott planned for next week will continue because the price is still too high," said Judy Braiman of Rochester, N.Y., president of the Consumers Association of New York. "We wanted to see the price of meat frozen at the December 1972 price. The cost of meat has gone so high so fast since then that I can't even remember what the December price was off-hand," she said.

"I was very, very pleased that the President has noticed that the voice of consumers was raised and that we do want something done. But I don't think he went far enough," said Mrs. Barbara Shuttleworth of Vernon, Conn., a housewife who has helped organize that state's boycott.

John Trotman, president of the cattlemen's association, said that consumers fail to realize that the price of beef is determined neither by growers or packers, but at the store level as a result of demand.

"We were very disappointed that the President put the ceiling on. We were appalled and dismayed once again that the beef industry was singled out for the ceiling and not other foods," said Trotman, a Montgomery, Ala., beef producer.

"It's the consumer demand that pushes prices up," he added.

Oren Lee Staley of Corning, Iowa, the national NFO president, said the President's announcement leaves farmers "wide open to be made the goats of price rollbacks by giant monopolistic chain stores who will determine what level they will pay for meat."

Weather

Ceiling Put On Meat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has imposed a ceiling on supermarket and wholesale meat prices, effective now, while he seeks a permanent cure to soaring food costs.

Spurred by housewife unhappiness and meat-counter boycotts, the President told the nation Thursday night he was switching economic signals and in effect freezing beef, pork and lamb prices at about their current levels.

Members of Congress generally supported Nixon's economic move. But some Democrats raised a cry of "too little, too late" and said they would continue to push for a freeze on all prices. And leaders of a nationwide consumers' boycott said they intend to carry out their plans despite the presidential action.

Among Congressional reaction to the Nixon order:

"A long step in the right direction," said Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

"A formula for shortages," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

"Fundamentally a mistake," said

House Agriculture Committee Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex. "I just don't think it will bring about a reduction in anything except the supply of meat."

In his 20-minute address, Nixon made only fleeting reference to housewife unhappiness, but sources reported it was a major factor in causing him to discard his insistence that food-prices curbs wouldn't work.

"What we need is action that will stop the rise in meat prices now," he said after recounting recent steps to increase supplies and bring prices down later this year.

"That is why I have today ordered the Cost of Living Council to impose a ceiling on prices of beef, pork and lamb," the President said, adding:

"The ceiling will remain in effect as long as is necessary to do the job. Meat prices must not go higher. With the help of the housewife and farmer, they can and should go down."

Here, according to administration officials, are the major points of the meat-price ceiling and related Nixon actions:

—Effective at 9 p.m. EST Thursday, meat retailers, wholesalers and processors cannot charge more than a figure computed on the basis of sales for the past 30 days. In most cases, the price ceiling will be at or slightly below current levels. The ceiling does not apply to poultry or seafood.

—By April 9, ceiling-price information must be posted at all meat counters. Internal Revenue Service agents will police the ceiling, just as they did the 1971 across-the-board price freeze.

—A special clause allows sellers of imported meat to pass along, dollar-for-dollar, any cost increases they incur. But this provision does not apply to domestically produced meat.

—The administration, meanwhile, is asking Congress to promptly give Nixon authority to suspend tariffs on products in short supply. This could affect, for example, imports of meat and other materials such as lumber.

Nixon's ceiling order does not apply at the farm level—prices of "cattle on the hoof and pigs with a squeal" won't be affected, Treasury Secretary

George Shultz said.

Shultz said continued exemption of raw farm prices from controls is necessary to encourage increases in meat and crop production. Boosts in production are a key to the administration's long-term strategy to use the pressure of supply-and-demand to bring down consumer prices.

Shultz also said housewives "can help bring about an end to rising meat prices by resisting high prices and by shopping wisely."

In his address, Nixon said the meat-price ceiling will help in the battle against inflation but said "it is not a permanent solution."

With this as an introduction, he turned to his battle of the budget with Congress.

"If I were to approve the increases in my budget that have been proposed in the Congress it would mean a 15-percent increase in your taxes, or an increase in prices for every American," he said.

"That is why I shall veto the bills which would break the federal budget which I have submitted."

Torture Was Way Of Life, Returning POWs Report

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The hours of lonely darkness in Hanoi; hours with only memory for company; hours that stretched into days, into weeks, into a timeless blur.

The beatings whose only end was unconsciousness. Or capitulation. Or death.

The hope and the faith. And the determination to somehow stay whole while in the enemy's grip.

This is the story the prisoners of war are telling, freed at last from the restraints that kept the details of their ordeal from the nation they served.

The POWs spoke at news conferences and interviews about what it was really like as captives of the North Vietnamese or the Viet Cong.

Until now, they had kept silent lest they jeopardize men still held prisoner. The last of the 587 POWs originally scheduled to be released arrived at Clark Air Base in the Philippines on Thursday morning and the words of torture, degradation and determination poured out at home.

One man told of letting maggots eat away dead flesh to clean out his festering wounds; another told of a torture called "the strap" that paralyzed the nerves; a third said he was kept "like an animal in a cage."

The former captives made these points:

—The prisoners were beaten, drugged, starved and tortured — sometimes fatally — by Communists who sought information or antiwar statements. Many of the men finally broke, but they tried to provide as little information as possible beyond the regulation name, rank and serial number.

—Conditions improved somewhat late in 1969; food rations were increased and the prisoners were allowed to speak to one another.

—The men maintained their own, military-style organization within prison camps; they kept in touch with each other by elaborately devised codes; newly arrived POWs passed on whatever information about the war and their fellow servicemen that they could.

None of the prisoners spoke of resentment or reprisals against POWs who reportedly cooperated with the enemy. No names were mentioned. Sources in Washington said the men had been told by the Pentagon to keep their silence on this subject.

Air Force Capt. Joseph Milligan of Annandale, N.J., said that when his plane was shot down on May 20, 1967, he suffered severe burns.

The only treatment he received, Milligan said, was a twice-weekly swabbing with hot water. Discussing his wounds, he added:

"They were draining quite badly, they were full of puss, they smelled rotten. One day I noticed some flies flying around my arms. I allowed them to land and lay eggs on my wounds. When the maggots hatched, they ate the dead flesh."

point of starting to lose mentality, then make some harmless statement. That's what I had done.

At this time, the most common way we communicated was by tapping from wall to wall and then whispering at naptime under the doors. We could get messages around the whole camp in a single day—to buildings we had named the Poolroom, the Stable, the Pigsty, the Office, the Barn and the Garage. The Garage was often cut off but men from other buildings occasionally went there, bringing policy and news with them.

We would also whistle in Morse code. Figuratively speaking, we now began to lie on the railroad tracks hoping that the sheer bulk of our bodies would slow down the train.

We forced them to be brutal to us. And this policy was successful in that the consequent exposure of their brutality ultimately caused U.S. public and official pressure to bear so heavily on our captors that treatment was eventually improved and meanwhile our honor was preserved. I think this is the real story of the Battle of Hanoi.

Eventually, they traced the source of the orders being put out to the men. And that was when it really hit the fan for me.

They knew I was inciting others to

"After the dead flesh was gone, I went over to the buckets in my cell. I urinated over my arms to wash the maggots off, tore up a tee shirt and rewrapped my arms. And after that, they healed."

Milligan said there were constant attempts to "re-educate" the prisoners. "They were always trying to convince you of their side by constantly feeding you their propaganda," he said.

Solons Study State Farm Land Sale

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan's plan to sell farmland at state institutions would undergo legislative scrutiny under a resolution passed by the Senate Thursday.

The proposal, approved by a voice vote, asks Gilligan to hold up his plans to sell some 16,000 acres for around $34.5 million until the issue can be studied.

The resolution sponsored by Sen. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan, would authorize the Legislative Service Commission, the research arm of the General Assembly, to make the study.

The measure now goes to the House. In other floor action, the Senate approved transfer of the Division of Aviation from the Commerce Department to the Transportation Department, while the House voted down a bill liberalizing voting requirements for Ohioans changing residences within the same county.

Bills introduced into the Senate during the closing day of the 13th week of the session included one to tighten control of hand guns and prohibit X-rated films from being shown on drive-in theater screens within view of a highway.

Lucasville Security Rules To Be Lifted

LUCASVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Southern Ohio Correctional Facility Supt. W. J. Whealon said Thursday he expects to lift security measures soon that were instituted after several stabbings at the prison March 9.

"One of the worst parts was the mental anguish of not knowing if you were going to be the next man called outside to be tortured," recalled Air Force Capt. Larry Chesley of Burley, Idaho.

Chesley, captured on April 16, 1966, said torture took several forms. "One was what we called 'the ropes' where they tie your arms behind your back and cut off circulation in your arms," Chesley said. Other prisoners described similar treatment; some called it "the strap," some "the pretzel."

Long, Dark Night Of Imprisonment Bared By Top POW

After Robby Risner left The Zoo in October 1965, I became the senior officer at that camp during the phase of captivity in North Vietnam in which the enemy aims were most ambitious. It was also the time when their torture was most widespread.

I think this phase was one of the most critical of what I call our "Battle of Hanoi."

It was 1966. I had been a prisoner since July 18, 1965, when I was shot down in an A6A Intruder jet at Thanh Hoa, 70 miles south of Hanoi. But 1966 was the year we prisoners initially organized our resistance against their torture and their demands.

In February 1966, when they wanted me to give them a biography, I was tortured seven days and six nights in a pitch black room. They beat me very regularly and brutally while I was in large traveling irons with my hands tightly cuffed behind me. It was very cold and I had no blanket, no bedding, no socks, only sandals and pajamas.

When I moved it hurt more. I was like an animal. Not even a healthy animal, like a crippled roach. I was pretty much of a vegetable.

After four days, I stopped eating because it required about 45 minutes for me to find my bucket and get into position to use it. I had to search for it by snaking around the floor and feeling with my head.

They can do some interesting things with those cuffs. But that blackness and disorientation—mentally, I was at about five per cent at the end of the torture.

One time they found my swollen black hands in worse shape than they wanted for that phase of torture. They decided to loosen the cuffs to let some blood circulate. But the cuffs were on so tight that they had trouble getting them off.

The only way they could do it was to take them apart. And that took three hours.

They kept me there three more weeks so I could recover enough to write my biography. The biography I wrote was harmless and in some parts obviously ludicrous.

For example, I told them truthfully that one hotel in a city where I had lived burned down but then I added that three others and burned down That part wasn't true.

When they released me from that torture room, a place we called the Auditorium at the Zoo, I was moved to a cell from which I could secretly communicate with the other prisoners. And I took over the camp after I made sure that I was the senior officer there.

We called it the Zoo because the prisoners had little peepholes through which people could look at us and we felt like animals.

We had various methods of communication, including tapping on the walls in Morse code, and I put out a message saying, "Robby Risner has left camp so I'm now in charge."

When I learned that some men were writing biographies and military information (unclassified) due to mere intimidation from threats, I put the policy out that they were not to succumb to threats, but must stand up and say no.

I tried to put out involved orders saying that you should die before giving the enemy classified information, but could write something like a request for toilet paper.

There were some irreconcilable questions about what could and couldn't be written, so I had to settle on a simple "No Write" policy. I also recommended that in resisting biographies, we should take torture to the

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Profittaking and disappointment that President Nixon had not gone far enough to stem inflation brought stock market prices down today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 3.84 to 955.30. Declining Big Board stocks outdid gainers 722 to 453.

The market had closed sharply higher Tuesday night in anticipation of what investors believed would be strong action by Nixon against inflation. The President Thursday night announced a ceiling on wholesale and retail beef, pork, and lamb prices.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was down .01 to 24.42.

Oils, which made strong gains Thursday, were generally lower today as profit-takers moved in. The oils, along with other energy stocks, showed continued interest from institutional buyers.

Final POWs Head Home To America

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The last American captured in the Vietnam war and 31 other U.S. POWs left the Philippines today for a homeland some have not seen in five years.

All were freed by the Viet Cong in Hanoi on Tuesday. The last 107 Americans released by the North Vietnamese and nine handed over by the Pathet Lao were to follow this weekend.

The first C141 transport off today was bound for Kelly Air Force Base, at San Antonio, Tex. It had 18 POWs aboard.

Eight hours later another C141 took off for Travis Air Force Base, in California, with Lt. Cmdr. Phillip Kientzler, 32, the last pilot captured, 10 other military men and three civilians.

Both planes were to stop in Hawaii. Two Hawaiians and a Samoan among the second group of POWs were getting off there.

The others will be flown on to military hospitals near their homes for completion of medical checkups.

A crowd of American housewives, teen-agers and servicemen stationed at Clark saw the men off and wreathed them in garlands of fragrant flowers. Many of the smiling men carried small American flags.

IRA Ammo Ship Seized

DUBLIN (AP) — Six leaders of the Irish Republican Army were held for a court appearance today to face charges of conspiring to import five tons of arms aboard a gun-running ship.

Joe Cahill, former Belfast commander of the IRA's Provisional wing, was seized with five aides Wednesday night after British and Irish forces trapped the little German-owned freighter Claudia off the southeast coast.

The weapons and explosives were believed to have come from Libya and presumably were intended for the IRA in Northern Ireland.

Aboard the 499-ton ship were 250 rifles, 248 .38-caliber pistols, more than 20,000 rounds of ammunition, 100 antitank mines, 100 antipersonnel mines, 600 pounds of TNT, 500 pounds of gelignite and 300 hand grenades. One report said the weapons were in crates marked "Tripoli," the Libyan capital. Cahill was reported to have visited there recently.

In Northern Ireland, guerrillas killed another British soldier Thursday in Belfast, wounded an unarmed policeman in Londonderry, and blew up three buildings in Belfast and a tavern in Ballymagory. British troops found 150 pounds of high explosives in a baby carriage outside a school in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast but no baby.

Rap Brown Convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Onetime black militant leader H. Rap Brown and three codefendants have been convicted of holding up a West Side Manhattan bar and assaulting a policeman.

A State Supreme Court jury, returning the verdict Thursday, said it was "hopelessly deadlocked" on other charges that the robbers attempted to murder police in an ensuing shootout.

Judge Arnold G. Fraiman then dismissed the panel of 11 men and one woman — including three blacks — which had deliberated over the case for 19 hours since midday Tuesday.

Brown's attorney, William M. Kunstler, immediately denounced the verdict as "a miscarriage of justice" and said it would be appealed. The prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Jack T. Litman, called it "a fair and very honest verdict."

Damage was slight and nobody got out, deputies said. There was a similar blaze at the jail less than three weeks ago.

Extravagant Food Stamp Use Denied By Spokesman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is hearing complaints that poor people are using food stamps extravagantly at meat counters, but a welfare-group spokesman says the talk is nonsense.

A boost in food-stamp benefits, amounting to an extra $4 per month for a family of four, will go into effect July 1. Critics of the program, in letters to the department, claim that such increases only fuel higher supermarket prices.

"I don't believe that," says Mrs. Johnnie Tillmon, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization. "People don't abuse the bonuses (extra stamps), because they aren't all that much."

Further, Mrs. Tillmon said, the increased stamp benefits will not offset higher food prices. Those, she said, have already outstripped the increase.

The Food and Nutrition Service in USDA, which administers the food-stamp program, says the number of complaint letters is relatively small but is increasing. A typical example:

"If you will just walk behind them (food-stamp shoppers) in the grocery store, you will see them at the meat counter selecting the most-choice meats. They don't even look at the prices, they just load the buggy to the top. You don't even hear them complain about prices."

Mrs. Tillmon, who described herself as a one-time stamp user, said those claims are made by people who do not realize that food-stamp users shop only twice a month, and that often they have to feed large families.

The food-stamp program, now serving about 12.4 million persons, has been expanded greatly since 1969 at the insistence of Congress. Under it, qualified families can buy a specified amount of stamps and then receive bonus coupons to increase their purchasing power in grocery stores.

Officials say the number of complaint letters has increased substantially in recent months, a time when retail food prices—particularly for meat—have risen the sharpest in history.

the southeast at San Francisco International Airport.

Most of the returning veterans hurried past the banks of television cameras and reporters who met the homecoming planes. A few stopped for interviews or smiled and waved, but most were subdued and businesslike, scurrying to catch connecting flights home.

A few spoke of returning later to Vietnam as civilians to wives and girlfriends or of waiting for Vietnamese wives to follow them here.

"Let's go home, let's go home!" shouted Pfc. Kirby Ledbetter, 23, of Charleston, W.Va. He said he had been married just 10 days before going to Vietnam four months ago.

Only the last flight, carrying 55 men and a woman Air Force social action officer, received the red carpet welcome which has become customary at Travis during the past month for homecoming prisoners of war.

The returnees — the rear guard of 2.5 million military personnel sent to Vietnam over an 11-year period — dispersed without fanfare to new duty stations, home leave or separation from the service.

Military formalities were limited to a six-member honor guard near the ramp of the arriving plane.

The few public comments were gathered by reporters who met the Vietnam veterans as they emerged from customs counters carrying luggage, tennis rackets and an assortment of gifts and souvenirs from Vietnam.

"How was it over there?" a television reporter asked a young Army enlisted man. "We had a job to do, and we did it," the unsmiling soldier said as he walked briskly toward a waiting bus.

Lake Erie Flood Feared

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The National Weather Service warned today of "a serious flood potential" along streams leading into Lake Erie from Ashtabula westward.

"Minor lowland flooding is in evidence at this time on these streams and tributaries and will continue to be present for an indefinite period," the service said.

It added that the lake is 4.7 feet above the low water datum with additional increases expected with "normal springtime rises."

The service said heavy rains or prolonged winds from the northeast or both combined with the high water level could produce a major flood.

"Either of these conditions is not unusual to the spring season in this area," the service said. "Thus the potential for a major flood will continue to exist for an indefinite period."

Spring Storm Dumps Snow OnSouthwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wide-ranging spring storm lashed the Southwest today, dumping more snow on the central and southern Rockies and spawning thunderstorms eastward into the Plains.

Las Vegas, N.M., was isolated by a snowstorm Thursday that closed down Interstate 25, U.S. 104 and U.S. 84. Stranded travelers were offered shelter in the school gymnasium.

Seven inches of snow fell on Las Vegas, during the night. Albuquerque received five inches and three to six inches was common from New Mexico into southern Colorado.

A severe-thunderstorm watch was issued for parts of Texas, Oklahoma. A tornado watch was posted for west-central Texas, a heavy-snow watch for southwest Kansas.

Meanwhile, the flooding Mississippi River near St. Louis sent more families to higher ground and caused dike workers to labor round the clock to hold back the waters.

Barge traffic north of St. Louis was halted by the Army Corps of Engineers as flooding forced the closing of 13 locks over a 250-mile stretch.

St. Charles County officials called 200 special deputies and members of the sheriff's reserve to special duty to control looting in the areas around St. Charles and West Alton, Mo.

Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond declared a state of emergency, the first step toward application for federal relief funds.

The river was expected to crest in the area today and Saturday.

Rain soaked parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Michigan, the Ohio Valley and the middle and southern Atlantic states.

Temperature before dawn ranged from 20 at Laramie, Wyo., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

Honor Truce, Reds Are Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaking to the nation on the very day the United States ended its direct military role in Vietnam, President Nixon pointed with pride to the fulfillment of his major objectives. But he said there is growing evidence Hanoi is not living up to the cease-fire agreement.

The President said the goal he had set for himself upon entering the White House in 1969-winning "an honorable peace"—had been met.

"For the first time in 12 years, no American military forces are stationed in Vietnam," he said.

And, "All of our American POWs are now on their way home."

But while he was accentuating the positive on the day the troops came home, he also recited the negative: Washington has amassed growing evidence that North Vietnam is not living up to the Jan. 27 Paris cease-fire agreement.

Once again, Nixon leveled a warning at the Communists.

He said the United States would insist that Hanoi comply with the Paris terms and that the leaders of North Vietnam should have no doubt there will be consequences if they do not comply.

However, Nixon did not specify what these consequences could be. And the Communists have heard the same kind of warning before, with no apparent sign that the infiltration has slowed down.

Before Nixon went on the air, the last U.S. combat troops had pulled out of Vietnam after more than a decade of fighting which cost nearly 46,000 American lives; the last of almost 600 U.S. prisoners had been freed by North Vietnam.

was ordered by Juvenile Judge Guy Cline for the 12-year-old girl implicated in the fire at a Mount of Praise Campground cottage earlier this month.

The girl, a student at Circleville Junior High, was ordered sent to the Youth Commission facilities where she is to undergo psychiatric evaluation and treatment.

On a permanent commitment to the OYC, a youth remains for the amount of time determined necessary by OYC officials for her treatment and adjustment.

Evidence gathered by Circleville Police, the Circleville Fire Department and an assistant from the State Fire Marshal's office tied the girl to seven burglaries, five cases of destruction of property, arson, petit larceny and several shopliftings within a six-block area of her home. Included was the fire at the William Purtee home on March 20 which finally led to the youngster's arrest.

She was convicted on four charges — three breaking and entering and one for arson. Following her trial Thursday afternoon she was allowed to return to her home until she is delivered to the Ohio Youth Commission, April 10.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Profitting and disappointment that President Nixon had not gone far enough to stem inflation brought stock market prices down today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was down 3.84 to 955.30. Declining Big Board stocks outdied gainers 722 to 453.

The market had closed sharply higher Tuesday night in anticipation of what investors believed would be strong action by Nixon against inflation. The President Thursday night announced a ceiling on wholesale and retail beef, pork, and lamb prices.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was down .01 to 24.42.

Oils, which made strong gains Thursday, were generally lower today as profit-takers moved in. The oils, along with other energy stocks, showed continued interest from institutional buyers.

IRA Ammo Ship Seized

DUBLIN (AP) — Six leaders of the Irish Republican Army were held for a court appearance today to face charges of conspiring to import five tons of arms aboard a gun-running ship.

Joe Cahill, former Belfast commander of the IRA's Provisional wing, was seized with five aides Wednesday night after British and Irish forces trapped the little German-owned freighter Claudia off the southeast coast.

The weapons and explosives were believed to have come from Libya and presumably were intended for the IRA in Northern Ireland.

Aboard the 499-ton ship were 250 rifles, 248 .38-caliber pistols, more than 20,000 rounds of ammunition, 100 antitank mines, 100 antipersonnel mines, 600 pounds of TNT, 500 pounds of gelignite and 300 hand grenades. One report said the weapons were in crates marked "Tripoli," the Libyan capital. Cahill was reported to have visited there recently.

In Northern Ireland, guerrillas killed another British soldier Thursday in Belfast, wounded an unarmed policeman in Londonderry, and blew up three buildings in Belfast and a tavern in Ballymagory. British troops found 150 pounds of high explosives in a baby carriage outside a school in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast but no baby.

Rap Brown Convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Onetime black militant leader H. Rap Brown and three codefendants have been convicted of holding up a West Side Manhattan bar and assaulting a policeman.

A State Supreme Court jury, returning the verdict Thursday, said it was "hopelessly deadlocked" on other charges that the robbers attempted to murder police in an ensuing shootout.

Judge Arnold G. Fraiman then dismissed the panel of 11 men and one woman — including three blacks — which had deliberated over the case for 19 hours since midday Tuesday.

Brown's attorney, William M. Kunstler, immediately denounced the verdict as "a miscarriage of justice" and said it would be appealed. The prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Jack T. Litman, called it "a fair and very honest verdict."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Sheriff's deputies said today some inmates set fire to a mattress in their eight-man dormitory cell in an apparent escape attempt.

Damage was slight and nobody got out, deputies said. There was a similar blaze at the jail less than three weeks ago.

Extravagant Food Stamp Use Denied By Spokesman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is hearing complaints that poor people are using food stamps extravagantly at meat counters, but a welfare-group spokesman says the talk is nonsense.

A boost in food-stamp benefits, amounting to an extra $4 per month for a family of four, will go into effect July 1. Critics of the program, in letters to the department, claim that such increases only fuel higher supermarket prices.

"I don't believe that," says Mrs. Johnnie Tillmon, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization. "People don't abuse the bonuses (extra stamps), because they aren't all that much."

Further, Mrs. Tillmon said, the increased stamp benefits will not offset higher food prices. Those, she said, have already outstripped the increase.

The Food and Nutrition Service in USDA, which administers the food-stamp program, says the number of complaint letters is relatively small but is increasing. A typical example:

Last U.S. Combat Troops Arrive Home For New Duty

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The last of the U.S. combat troops from Vietnam scattered across the country today — homeward bound with souvenirs and memories from the nation's longest war.

On Thursday, six jet transports brought the final 1,120 American troops back to Travis and 66 miles to

"If you will just walk behind them (food-stamp shoppers) in the grocery store, you will see them at the meat counter selecting the most-choice meats. They don't even look at the prices, they just load the buggy to the top. You don't even hear them complain about prices."

Mrs. Tillmon, who described herself as a one-time stamp user, said those claims are made by people who do not realize that food-stamp users shop only twice a month, and that often they have to feed large families.

The food-stamp program, now serving about 12.4 million persons, has been expanded greatly since 1969 at the insistence of Congress. Under it, qualified families can buy a specified amount of stamps and then receive bonus coupons to increase their purchasing power in grocery stores.

Officials say the number of complaint letters has increased substantially in recent months, a time when retail food prices—particularly for meat—have risen the sharpest in history.

the southeast at San Francisco International Airport.

Most of the returning veterans hurried past the banks of television cameras and reporters who met the homecoming planes. A few stopped for interviews or smiled and waved, but most were subdued and businesslike, scurrying to catch connecting flights home.

A few spoke of returning later to Vietnam as civilians to wives and girlfriends or of waiting for Vietnamese wives to follow them here.

"Let's go home, let's go home!" shouted Pfc. Kirby Ledbetter, 23, of Charleston, W.Va. He said he had been married just 10 days before going to Vietnam four months ago.

Only the last flight, carrying 55 men and a woman Air Force social action officer, received the red carpet welcome which has become customary at Travis during the past month for homecoming prisoners of war.

The returnees — the rear guard of 2.5 million military personnel sent to Vietnam over an 11-year period — dispersed without fanfare to new duty stations, home leave or separation from the service.

Military formalities were limited to a six-member honor guard near the ramp of the arriving plane.

The few public comments were gathered by reporters who met the Vietnam veterans as they emerged from customs counters carrying luggage, tennis rackets and an assortment of gifts and souvenirs from Vietnam.

"How was it over there?" a television reporter asked a young Army enlistment man. "We had a job to do, and we did it," the unsmiling soldier said as he walked briskly toward a waiting bus.

Lake Erie Flood Feared

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The National Weather Service warned today of "a serious flood potential" along streams leading into Lake Erie from Ashtabula westward.

"Minor lowland flooding is in evidence at this time on these streams and tributaries and will continue to be present for an indefinite period," the service said.

It added that the lake is 4.7 feet above the low water datum with additional increases expected with "normal springtime rises."

The service said heavy rains or prolonged winds from the northeast or both combined with the high water level could produce a major flood.

"Either of these conditions is not unusual to the spring season in this area," the service said. "Thus the potential for a major flood will continue to exist for an indefinite period."

Spring Storm Dumps Snow On Southwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wide-ranging spring storm lashed the Southwest today, dumping more snow on the central and southern Rockies and spawning thunderstorms eastward into the Plains.

Las Vegas, N.M., was isolated by a snowstorm Thursday that closed down Interstate 25, U.S. 104 and U.S. 84. Stranded travelers were offered shelter in the school gymnasium.

Seven inches of snow fell on Las Vegas, during the night. Albuquerque received five inches and three to six inches was common from New Mexico into southern Colorado.

A severe-thunderstorm watch was issued for parts of Texas, Oklahoma. A tornado watch was posted for west-central Texas, a heavy-snow watch for southwest Kansas.

Meanwhile, the flooding Mississippi River near St. Louis sent more families to higher ground and caused dike workers to labor round the clock to hold back the waters.

Barge traffic north of St. Louis was halted by the Army Corps of Engineers as flooding forced the closing of 13 locks over a 250-mile stretch.

St. Charles County officials called 200 special deputies and members of the sheriff's reserve to special duty to control looting in the areas around St. Charles and West Alton, Mo.

Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond declared a state of emergency, the first step toward application for federal relief funds.

The river was expected to crest in the area today and Saturday.

Rain soaked parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Michigan, the Ohio Valley and the middle and southern Atlantic states.

Temperature before dawn ranged from 20 at Laramie, Wyo., to 77 at Key West, Fla.

Honor Truce, Reds Are Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speaking to the nation on the very day the United States ended its direct military role in Vietnam, President Nixon pointed with pride to the fulfillment of his major objectives. But he said there is growing evidence Hanoi is not living up to the cease-fire agreement.

The President said the goal he had set for himself upon entering the White House in 1969—winning "an honorable peace"—had been met.

"For the first time in 12 years, no American military forces are stationed in Vietnam," he said.

And, "All of our American POWs are now on their way home."

But while he was accentuating the positive on the day the troops came home, he also recited the negative: Washington has amassed growing evidence that North Vietnam is not living up to the Jan. 27 Paris cease-fire agreement.

Once again, Nixon leveled a warning at the Communists.

He said the United States would insist that Hanoi comply with the Paris terms and that the leaders of North Vietnam should have no doubt there will be consequences if they do not comply.

However, Nixon did not specify what these consequences could be. And the Communists have heard the same kind of warning before, with no apparent sign that the infiltration has slowed down.

Before Nixon went on the air, the last U.S. combat troops had pulled out of Vietnam after more than a decade of fighting which cost nearly 46,000 American lives; the last of almost 600 U.S. prisoners had been freed by North Vietnam.

was ordered by Juvenile Judge Guy Cline for the 12-year-old girl implicated in the fire at a Mount of Praise Campground cottage earlier this month.

The girl, a student at Circleville Junior High, was ordered sent to the Youth Commission facilities where she is to undergo psychiatric evaluation and treatment.

On a permanent commitment to the OYC, a youth remains for the amount of time determined necessary by OYC officials for her treatment and adjustment.

Evidence gathered by Circleville Police, the Circleville Fire Department and an assistant from the State Fire Marshal's office tied the girl to seven burglaries, five cases of destruction of property, arson, petit larceny and several shopliftings within a six-block area of her home. Included was the fire at the William Purtee home on March 20 which finally led to the youngster's arrest.

She was convicted on four charges — three breaking and entering and one for arson. Following her trial Thursday afternoon she was allowed to return to her home until she is delivered to the Ohio Youth Commission, April 10.

A hand carved owl brought in $17 more.

For $12, one Rotarian purchased a pen set with a base reputedly made of a stone from the London Bridge. AM-FM radios sold for $12 and $34; Scott lawn products, valued at $25, sold for $31; a crate of oranges got a $5 bid and a portable typewriter was an additional $25 in the till.

Also selling was uncirculated silver dollar, glassware, an electric toothbrush, a picnic cooler, a woman's blonde hairpiece, a powder flask, a dozen eggs and a Nixon campaign coin, plus other unlisted items. In all, there were over 100 articles sold.

Brian Conkel, 1973 Easter Seal Child for Pickaway County, and his mother Mrs. Eugene Conkel, were special guests. Other visitors were: Evan Surran and Ralph Ratliff, both of Chillicothe, Harry Blank and Jim Hardland, of Columbus, and Brooks Davis.

Mental Health Association Hears Reports

Mrs. Clarence Willoughby, president of the Pickaway Mental Health Assn., gave a report of a meeting of the state association during the March 25 business meeting of the local organization.

Mrs. Willoughby reported the state association discussed plans for affiliation with the national association. Attending the state meeting with Mrs. Willoughby was Mrs. Lowell Toland.

Mrs. Toland, who is continuing representative to Volunteer Services Council of Columbus State Hospital, gave a report.

Following a discussion by Edward Holmes, retiring program chairman, there was unanimous approval to sponsor Rae Fenstermaker at the Drug and Alcohol education Council to be held in August at Ohio Wesleyan University. The theme for this event is "Life Is Real."

Mrs. M. A. Yates, treasurer, announced the budget for 1974 to be presented to the Pickaway County Community Fund. A decision was made to give the amount budgeted for program aids for mentally retarded to the sheltered workshop and the Brooks Yates School.

Chaplain Konkright of Orient State Institute expressed appreciation for the local association's gift of items for personal grooming which was being included in going away kits for departing residents. He also elaborated on the variety of academic and recreational activities exercised for progress benefits — giving special mention to the humanization program.

Mrs. Toland, newly elected vice president, announced there will be a guest speaker for the meeting scheduled April 23.

ROTARY AUCTION—Bob McKelvey holds red rooster in a bag, donated by Sterling Croman, and Auctioneer Jim Huldane wears blonde wig which sold for $5 to David Goldschmidt. The auction of donated items netted the club nearly $1,000, which will be turned over to the Pickaway County Easter Seal Society and Brooks-Yates School.

Toledo Bus Strike Over

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Bus drivers returned to their jobs today after transit system officials and the board of education agreed to take action designed to reduce rowdiness by school children.

The drivers struck Tuesday, leaving this city of 400,000 without bus service, to protest what they called unruly behavior by school children. They said they were being "spit upon, verbally abused and banged around" by the pupils.

Officials of the Toledo Area Regional Transit Authority and the school board agreed at a meeting Thursday to set a 6 p.m. cutoff time on the validity of passes used by school children to ride buses free of charge.

Children not on school bus routes are provided the passes under a contract between the school system and the bus company.

The passes have been valid at any time of day or night, and bus drivers said youngsters with nothing else to do would ride buses and harass drivers.

Recycling is a must since the U.S. produces 360 million tons of waste annually in urban areas.

Fuel Shortage Already Here?

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — State Purchasing Director Ben Rubrecht is now convinced the gasoline shortage crisis has hit West Virginia.

None of 10 major gasoline and oil firms submitted bids March 15 on a projected $2 million worth of business in supplying the state with gasoline, diesel fuel and heating oil for a 12-month contract beginning April 1.

Purchasing officials had anticipated that when bids were submitted the price per gallon would be somewhat higher, reflecting the general upward surge of prices, but buyer Don Karle said, "I never dreamed there wouldn't be any bids at all."

Humanity Overrides City Law

BROOK PARK, Ohio (AP)— City officials here will ignore a city ordinance in order to let a family live in a house trailer while their home is being rebuilt.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Holt and their 10-year-old son, Jeffrey, was destroyed by fire last weekend.

A city ordinance prohibits trailers to be occupied on city property, but Mayor Angelo Wedo agreed this week to issue a permit despite the law. "It's a hardship case," he said.

The family's insurance company would pay the cost of a motel during rebuilding, but the family wanted the trailer because Jeffrey suffers from bronchial asthma and often needs a tutor at home.

Moving to the motel would have required leaving the Berea School District which provides the tutor, the family said. Mrs. Holt said she also wanted a kitchen so she could continue to prepare a special diet the boy needs.

The Greatest Word in the Bible

The Bible is our greatest book, Jesus is our greatest name, and GRACE is our greatest word. The grace of God that bringeth salvation. — Titus 2:11.

Almost everyone claims love as the greatest thing in the world, but grace is a greater word than love. I may love you enough to pay all your bills, but I don't have the means to do it. Grace is love plus the means and, therefore, is love in action. Grace is God's merits mixed together like a druggist fills a prescription for a sick person. Our minds cannot fully comprehend the ingredients of God's prescription for sin; but we can know that there is a balm in Gilead that heals the sin-sick soul. Glory to God!

A picture of grace is that of a drowning man in the ocean. He is found by the rescuers. They hear his cry for help, so they drop a rope ladder from the helicopter, but the drowning man is so weak that he cannot climb up, so a man climbs down and grips him in his arms and takes him to safety. Jesus Christ is the man who brought down the saving arm to lift us up. An Old Testament saint, whose faith looked forward to Calvary, saw that arm and said, "His arm is not short that it cannot save nor his ear heavy that it cannot hear."

The Greek word for grace is CHARIS. In the mind of the Greek, it was their most heart-revealing word. (God captured this word in His effort to reveal His heart to man.) CHARIS implied a favor freely done without claim or expectation of return. The only reason for the deed was because of the spontaneous generosity of the heart. In Pagan Greece, this favor was only to friends, not upon an enemy. The New Testament, takes CHARIS for an infinite leap forward because the favor God did at Calvary's cross was not for a race that loved Him but one that hated Him.

The Judge steps from His judgment throne, takes upon Himself the penalty of human sin, satisfies His justice, and then justifies every hell-deserving sinner who put his faith in the Saviour.

Amazing Grace how sweet the sound
That saved a wretch like me!
I once was lost, but now am found,
Was blind, but now I see.

Poor Will Have Lawyers

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When the Administration put Howard Phillips, a conservative, in as acting director of the Office of Economic Opportunity with a mandate to clean house and to abolish some 900 wasteful, ineffective and sometimes crooked agencies, there were anguished cries about a "Nixon compassion gap." But the wailing about a heartless "Buckleyite Black Mass" being celebrated at OEO obscures a number of things.

Actually, as M. Stanton Evans, the whose shell spirals in an anti-clockwise direction. It's lucky the snail turned up in England because it could have gone unnoticed elsewhere.

But a sharp-eyed resident of Walton-on-the Naze found it and trotted off to the British Museum to make a full report.

It evidently was one of those days when the world was not too much the Walton-on-the Naze.

All those Britons have been driving on the left side so long they just naturally take to other left-handed things. Even whelks.

shed tears for bumbling officeholders who have actually let the poor down.

It is not even true that there is any particular brutality about the ending or the revamping of OEO's own functions. There has been a lot of criticism of the Office of Legal Services, for example. But the poor are not about to be deprived of legal help. In Indianapolis the big-hearted "poverty lawyers" with government money to spend, thought it perfectly terrible that a group of counter-culture high school editors of an underground publication, the Corn Cob Curtain, should be in trouble with the law. Some of the outraged Indianapolis parents insisted that the kid editors had been dealing more in porn than in corn. The poverty lawyers took the kids' side of the battle, offering them legal services for free.

Nobody quarreled with the right of any editor to have his day in court. But it seemed a little too much when it was discovered that the poverty lawyers had taken on some youthful clients whose families were in the $20-$25,000-a-year income range. The specious defense of the poverty lawyers was that the kids didn't necessarily have access to the family bankrolls. Did this make them poor?

It seemed plain to a big part of the Indianapolis community that the OEO legal service representatives were more concerned about supporting their philosophic prejudices than they were about finding poor people who were really up against it. Laurie McCarty, the Boston lawyer who had come into OEO to clean up the legal services, was jolted into second thoughts about the Indianapolis office when he discovered that it had apparently never bothered to consult with the local bar association. This, if it could be established beyond doubt, was a violation of the Economic Opportunity Act, which expressly requires legal service consultation with the local bar.

After talking with judges and attorneys in Indianapolis and in the overlapping area of Marion County, Robert Parker, another Bostonian who is one of the conservative OEO "receivers" in Washington, was convinced that there had been a communications gap between the bar association and the government's poverty lawyers. So there was a great deal of argument in Washington about renewing OEO funds for the Indianapolis operation. The time seemed ripe to put Indianapolis Bar Association representatives on the free legal services directorate. A slate was actually drawn up.

It so happened, however, that the liberal Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, a Republican, had enough influence at the White House to prevent any drastic change in local poverty lawyer agency personnel. The Indianapolis Bar Association, after some hemming and hawing, went along with the mayor. Presumably Douglass Shortridge, the president-elect of the association, will be consulted from now on.

Dear Editor:

When America horned in on the fracas in Vietnam she horned in on a civil war. Our part in it is, and has been, a police action, a rather weak term for a blunder that has cost the lives of over 50,000 of our young men, hospitalized several times that many, and cost America's taxpayers around 130 billion dollars.

Never in American history have we sacrificed so much for so little. Never has America gone so far toward making an ass of herself — consequently, never has her prestige fallen so low.

Not all the blame for the degradation suffered by this country over the past several years can be laid at the feet of those in high places. The voice of the people never rose above a whisper. The voice of some of the few that did went silent forever into the grass on some of our college campuses.

All the respect in the world is due those who served in Southeast Asia. Never can I recall the American fighting man going it so alone and forgotten while those back in his homeland lived so high on the hog.

I can recall our wars of the past when such was not true. We were on hand when Johnny marched away and when Johnny marched home. We said our goodbyes to those who left and our hellos to those who returned. And for those who did not return we shed our tears.

I sincerely hope that in the future the American people never again become so complacent as to turn their backs on that which is in their power to prevent. Never let them again forget that the voice of the people is the voice of God.

Respectfully yours,

Radio equipment which would keep the Circleville fire department's township truck in touch with the Pickaway County sheriff's department was purchased. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the equipment would enable the departments to say in touch during an emergency.

A special series of FBI law enforcement training programs for police of Circleville and Pickaway County got underway in the Pickaway County Courthouse.

Safety Director C. O. Leist announced that he would begin a checkup program on eating places in Circleville. He said the purpose of the check was to improve sanitation conditions in the eating places.

The Circleville fire department was credited with "a good stop that may have saved the community a major disaster" following a fire that raged through the second floor of the Thompson-Leach auto agency on E. Franklin St. The firemen checked the blaze in a two-hour battle and held the damage to several thousand dollars.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is ether still used for surgery? I remember so vividly the smell and the after-effects when I was a small child and had my tonsils out.

Mrs. S.T.T., Va.

Dear Mrs. T.:

Ether remains one of the safest anesthetics available. It is still used but with less frequency because of the newer chemicals which have a high degree of safety and fewer of the unpleasant aftereffects.

Many adults recall, as you do, the odor and perhaps the nausea that accompany ether. They retain so much of the memory that often they are in fact, terrified later if they have to undergo another operation.

Anesthesia frequently looms as a greater threat to patients than the operation itself. The idea of total loss of control fills them with anxiety.

This loss of control is often associated with the fear that "they will never come out of anesthesia alive." For this reason the modern anesthesiologist sees all of his patients pre-operatively and thoroughly explain the nature of the anesthesia and the safety of the newer advances in this specialty.

In many instances, adults are given an injection into the vein. After about a minute, the patient is asleep and the next level of anesthesia is begun. Other fast-acting, preliminary drugs are used for children.

One of the greatest advances in safety has been a method by which a tube is placed in the larynx so that the anesthesia gases can be directly pumped into the lungs. Thus the breathing apparatus is, at all times, under the safe control of the doctor. Many additional safeguarding drugs are used pre-operatively.

The modern anesthesiologist is a vital part of the surgical team. He carefully evaluates every aspect of the patient's general condition before deciding on the specific drug to be used. By asking all about anesthesia before the operation, the patient can help his own anxiety. This plays a vital part in his total recovery from surgery.

Is it possible to have too much blood? A friend of mine was told that she has the condition.

Miss K.B., Fla.

Dear Miss B.:

It is possible and the condition is known as polycythemia vera. It is also known as Osler's Disease.

The cause is unknown. It seems to affect men twice as often as women. One of the characteristics is a marked increase in the number of red blood cells along with changes in the spleen, and a variety of other generalized symptoms. The diagnosis is made by complete blood study.

Put Yourself In Her Place, Then Decide

DEAR ABBY: A group of couples have been attending a Saturday night dance together for a number of years. We are all good friends. Recently one couple divorced and the lady continued to attend these dances as a "single."

For a while the group accepted her to help her over her adjustment period. The gentlemen in the crowd continued to dance with her as they always had, but this created a problem for one of the wives was always left to sit out the dance while her husband danced with "Single."

Abby, don't you think "single" should realize that she is creating a problem and should drop out of the group until she obtains a partner? How can we end the dilemma, but still be friends?

"SITTING DUCK"
DEAR SITTING: Put yourself in "single's" place and be a little more charitable. The life of a single is lonely and difficult and those Saturday night dances are probably her only opportunity to socialize.

Dual Prime Rate Urged By Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is working on a dual prime rate for bank loans that it believes will help keep interest rates down for small businessmen, homebuyers, farmers and consumers.

A spokesman for the Committee on Interest and Dividends said guidelines for the dual rate will be issued in two to four weeks. He said he expects most banks will put the plan into effect.

One prime rate would be for large corporations. It would be allowed to float free of government restraint.

The second—for smaller borrowers—would be subject to supervision of the committee.

A committee spokesman said a basic criterion in preparing the dual-rate plan is that "special moderation" in interest rates is needed for loans to farmers, small businesses, homebuyers and consumers.

Arthur Burns, committee chairman, said the group visualizes "a free market for large corporations ... that's the stage we're at now. But for small business we're concerned to try to give some protection."

A background briefing on the dual rate plan was held by the committee Wednesday.

Bus Hijacker 'Hard-Core Red'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The 21-year-old leader of the gang that hijacked a bus Wednesday in a futile attempt to get a plane to Moscow or Peking is a "hardcore Communist," a high-ranking police official said today.

Lt. Gen. Prachuab Suntrangkoon told newsmen Tampong Sangchompu told him during hours of interrogation that he has more than 300 comrades working for "the cause of Communism" in northeast Thailand.

The general said Tampong was carrying a classified Thai government handbook, a stick of dynamite and a timing device when he was captured.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful hairdresser with whom I have a standing appointment once a week. I am a busy woman and like to get in and out of the beauty parlor as quickly as possible. My problem is that my hairdresser is a chatty person, and he talks with his hands! He just about drives me crazy, wasting all that time gesturing. How can I tell him to WORK WITH HIS HANDS, NOT TALK? No names, please. I need him more than he needs me.

DEAR IN: It's time you did a little talking. With the VOICE lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing out of concern for young teenaged girls who find themselves burdened with unwanted pregnancies.

Please please encourage mothers to provide birth control measures for their teenaged daughters. Fear of pregnancy does not always prevent girls as young as 13 or 14 from having sexual experiences. Many girls do not stop to consider the risks when they are confronted by strong sexual desire.

At 17 I found myself hitchhiking to a hospital to have, fortunately a safe, legal abortion, about which I felt I could not tell my own parents. Since then I have been taking birth control measures and seeing a doctor regularly for venereal disease checks. No, I am not promiscuous but V.D. and unwanted pregnancy can happen to the nicest people.

Now, at 19, I see similar heart-breaking, terrifying experiences happening around me. Please, remind girls that there are free clinics. And if they are lucky enough to have understanding parents, they should ask them for help. If this is printed, and I hope it is, sign me ...

SADDER BUT WISER
DEAR SADDER: I'll print your letter, although I will probably be accused of condoning pre-marital sex, which I am not! However, once that decision has already been made, the price some girls pay is so tragically out of proportion to the "crime." I believe an ounce of prevention is better than eight pounds of unwanted baby or a venereal disease.

special kind of freedom, a freedom from the past," says the Rev. E. Allen Campbell. "It freed us to think through more realistically what it means to be the church."

With that sense of release, the two denominational congregations joined last fall after a June flood into a united Christian body in a grass-roots step that now is seen as the potential pattern for achieving unification of eight major denominations in America.

The flood did huge property damage to the churches, and to homes of many members.

They merged into a new "Church of Christ Uniting" — the tentative name proposed for the merger of the eight denominations. The local union also was named on the nationally drafted plan for interdenominational union.

The idea is to build the connections "from the bottom up, rather than from the top down," says the Rev. Dr. Paul A. Crow Jr., of Princeton, N.J., general secretary of the Consultation on Church Union.

That kind of local-level unification is happening in many places these days, and when the Consultation meets next week, April 1-6, at Memphis, Tenn., it is expected to give wider impetus to the process.

Recommendations have been drawn up for representatives of the eight denominations to launch a network of experimental "generating communities" — about 30 of them — to combine and spark local developments toward a nationally unified church.

Denominations involved have a total of about 22 million members.

The Rev. Dr. Rachel Henderline, an Austin, Tex., theology professor and head of a team that has analyzed about 8,500 responses to a draft plan of union, said they show clearly the churches want to move from "conversations about" to "experiments in" united operations.

Under the plan, the "generating communities" of congregations of various denominations would act as one, sharing worship, Holy Communion, fellowship and join in common projects of service for a specific period of time.

"They would be demonstration communities and would hopefully generate practical suggestions for formation of a future united Church," Dr. Crow says.

That sort of building unification from the ground up already is spreading simultaneously in scores of cases in various ways — such as out-right congregational mergers, sharing facilities and cooperative "clustering" for joint projects.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Put Yourself In Her Place, Then Decide

DEAR ABBY: A group of couples have been attending a Saturday night dance together for a number of years. We are all good friends. Recently one couple divorced and the lady continued to attend these dances as a "single."

For a while the group accepted her to help her over her adjustment period. The gentlemen in the crowd continued to dance with her as they always had, but this created a problem for one of the wives was always left to sit out the dance while her husband danced with "Single."

Abby, don't you think "single" should realize that she is creating a problem and should drop out of the group until she obtains a partner? How can we end the dilemma, but still be friends?

"SITTING DUCK"

DEAR SITTING: Put yourself in "single's" place and be a little more charitable. The life of a single is lonely and difficult and those Saturday night dances are probably her only opportunity to socialize.

Dual Prime Rate Urged By Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is working on a dual prime rate for bank loans that it believes will help keep interest rates down for small businessmen, homebuyers, farmers and consumers.

A spokesman for the Committee on Interest and Dividends said guidelines for the dual rate will be issued in two to four weeks. He said he expects most banks will put the plan into effect.

One prime rate would be for large corporations. It would be allowed to float free of government restraint.

The second—for smaller borrowers—would be subject to supervision of the committee.

A committee spokesman said a basic criterion in preparing the dual-rate plan is that "special moderation" in interest rates is needed for loans to farmers, small businesses, homebuyers and consumers.

Arthur Burns, committee chairman, said the group visualizes "a free market for large corporations... that's the stage we're at now. But for small business we're concerned to try to give some protection."

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Friday March 30, 1973

MRS. JOHN CREIGHTON WINLAND

Miss Barbara Ellen Lutz Bride Of John C. Winland

Wearing her mother's wedding gown, Miss Barbara Ellen Lutz became the bride of Mr. John Creighton Winland. The Rev. Lynn Summers performed the double ring ceremony 5:30 p.m., March 9th for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lutz, Route 2, Amanda, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Winland, Route 1, Laurelville.

For the ceremony in Heidelberg United Church of Christ of Stoutsville, the altar was decorated with a gold cross, single tapers in gold holders and matching altar vases filled with arrangements of white and pink gladioli and blue carnations with emerald and huckleberry foliage.

Organist, Miss Debbie Steele, cousin of the bride, presented a half-hour of wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her full length gown of candlelight satin featured a Chantilly lace yoke and long tapered sleeves. The softly gathered skirt fell gracefully into a cathedral train. Her bouffant elbow length veil of illusion lace was caught to a cluster of daisy petals of alicorn lace edged in seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses interspersed with blue feathered carnations and baby's breath edged with lemon leaf and a satin ruffle matching her gown. Narrow knotted streamers of white, blue and pink cascaded from the arrangement.

Maid of honor was Miss Jan Young. Her full length gown of peacock blue satin, featuring a round neckline and long sleeves was accented with covered buttons and tie sash. Bridesmaid was Miss Paula Lutz, sister of the bride. Her gown, matching the maid of honor's was of pink satin. Both attendants' gowns were made by the bride's mother and Mrs. Carl Strous.

The attendant's headpieces were like the one worn by the bride and matched the color of their gowns. They carried round bouquets of pink and blue feathered carnations, and French maline tufts centered with white sweetheart roses. The bouquets were edged with lemon leaf and a ruffle matching their gowns.

Mr. James Stebelton, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Michael Stebelton and Mr. Edward Stebelton Jr., cousins of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lutz selected for her daughter's wedding a blue street length dress with black accessories. Mrs. Winland chose a street length dress of light green with black accessories. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception in the church social room followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with bride and groom figures used at the wedding of the bride's parents. Huckleberry foliage, white, pink and blue flowers wreathed the cake.

Miss Teresa Butts, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. Hostesses were Mrs. James Romine, Miss Valeria Fausnaugh, Miss Joyce Smith and Mrs. Carl Adams, cousin of

MRS. JOHN CREIGHTON WINLAND

Miss Barbara Ellen Lutz Bride Of John C. Winland

Wearing her mother's wedding gown, Miss Barbara Ellen Lutz became the bride of Mr. John Creighton Winland. The Rev. Lynn Summers performed the double ring ceremony 5:30 p.m., March 9th for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lutz, Route 2, Amanda, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Winland, Route 1, Laurelville.

For the ceremony in Heidelberg United Church of Christ of Stoutsville, the altar was decorated with a gold cross, single tapers in gold holders and matching altar vases filled with arrangements of white and pink gladioli and blue carnations with emerald and huckleberry foliage.

Organist, Miss Debbie Steele, cousin of the bride, presented a half-hour of wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her full length gown of candlelight satin featured a Chantilly lace yoke and long tapered sleeves. The softly gathered skirt fell gracefully into a cathedral train. Her bouffant elbow length veil of illusion lace was caught to a cluster of daisy petals of alison lace edged in seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses interspersed with blue feathered carnations and baby's breath edged with lemon leaf and a satin ruffle matching her gown. Narrow knotted streamers of white, blue and pink cascaded from the arrangement.

Maid of honor was Miss Jan Young. Her full length gown of peacock blue satin, featuring a round neckline and long sleeves was accented with covered buttons and tie sash. Bridesmaid was Miss Paula Lutz, sister of the bride. Her gown, matching the maid of honor's was of pink satin. Both attendants gowns were made by the bride's mother and Mrs. Carl Strous.

The attendant's headpieces were like the one worn by the bride and matched the color of their gowns. They carried round bouquets of pink and blue feathered carnations, and French maline tufts centered with white sweetheart roses. The bouquets were edged with lemon leaf and a ruffle matching their gowns.

Mr. James Stebelton, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Michael Stebelton and Mr. Edward Stebelton Jr., cousins of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lutz selected for her daughter's wedding a blue street length dress with black accessories. Mrs. Winland chose a street length dress of light green with black accessories. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception in the church social room followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with bride and groom figures used at the wedding of the bride's parents. Huckleberry foliage, white, pink and blue flowers wreathed the cake.

Miss Teresa Butts, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book. Hostesses were Mrs. James Romine, Miss Valeria Fausnaugh, Miss Joyce Smith and Mrs. Carl Adams, cousin of

Good Shepherd Church WSCS Holds Quiet Day, Agape Meal

A Quiet Day with an Agape Meal was observed by the Women's Society of Christian Service of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church in the Christian Service Center recently with 40 members present.

Mrs. Dorothy Conley served as chairman for the evening. The program was entitled "Our Life Together: A Pilgrimage." Miss Lucille Kirkwood was pianist as members were taken on a pilgrimage through their heritage from the past, confusion of the present and hope for the future.

On the pilgrimage through life, in journeyings together, hope appears in the midst of despair, frustration and the commonplace. When a creative event brings something new into being, when the barren becomes pregnant, when the flower blooms in the desert, when love appears amidst hate, when freedom breaks the chain of slavery, when men and women have the courage to live and keep on hoping.

At the beginning of the program the record "Travel On" was played. Mrs. Madeline Flowers read Scripture taken from Isaiah 35: 8-10. A prayer of blessing upon the pilgrimage was given by Mrs. Dorothy Conley. Mrs. Clara Dumm gave the names of pilgrims who have played a great part in the search for peace. Members sang "God Of Peace And God Of Glory" with Miss Kirkwood accompanying them.

A visit was then made to five Hospices, places where pilgrims were received with hospitality and found rest or refuge for the night. The first visit was with Deborah, judge of Israel, portrayed by Mrs. Nancy Hamilton; second visit was with Sojourn Truth, abolitionist and Women's Rights advocate, and Isabelle, portrayed by Mrs. Elaine Bowman.

The third visit was with Esabelle Thoburn, teacher and missionary to India, portrayed by Mrs. Bonnie Watson; fourth visit with Elizabeth Blackwell, portrayed by Mrs. Rosalie Crabtree; Luce Stone, portrayed by Mrs. Joanne Schlegler and Antoinette Brown, portrayed by Mrs. Harriett Riser, all three being courageous sisters-in-law and the fifth visit was with Mary McLeod Bethume, educator, peacemaker and fighter for justice, portrayed by Mrs. Myrna Siniff. Mrs. Carol Bowman sang "On My Journey."

Members then went to the dining room to partake of an Agape Meal prepared by Mrs. Delorice Bennington and her committee. It consisted of bread, cold cuts, cheese and fruit juices. Before the meal three articles were given: Confession by Mrs. Lorena Wynkoop; "Confession" by Mrs. Patty Kirkwood and "Community" by Mrs. Sue Roan.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood gave the invitation to the meal or love feast, explaining the meaning. Agape is a Greek word for love, particularly the love of God and one's fellow human beings.

Following the meal Mrs. Evelyn Dunkle sang "I Wish I Knew How It Would Feel To Be Free." Mrs. Marie Wilson continued the pilgrimage into the future. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Radcliffe gave some views on the visions of the future. It was noted that the church is the message and at the foot of the cross the ground is level and so it will be in years to come.

A Litany of Hope was read by the women with Mrs. Dorothy Conley as leader and giving the benediction.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Do you or does someone in your family have difficulty comfortably reading most printed books? You can still enjoy reading. The library has just received many new titles of large print books. These books are smaller in size and easier to handle than the quarto volumes formerly used. They are reprints of new, popular titles and should appeal to a wide variety of tastes.

Three volumes are non-fiction: "A World Beyond" by Ruth Montgomery; "A High Old Time; or How to Enjoy Being a Woman Over Sixty" by Lavinia Russ; and "I Remember It Well" by Maurice Chevalier.

If you like mystery, suspense, or a dash of adventure, try "When In Greece" by Emma Lathen; "Hail, Hail The Gang's All Here!" by Ed McBain; "The Day of the Jackal" by Frederick Forsyth; "Bear Island" by Alistair MacLean; "Event 1000" by David Lavelle; or "The Levanter" by Eric Ambler.

For Western fans, choose "Ambush at Torture Canyon" by Max Brand; "Valley of Wild Horses" by Zane Grey; or "Ride the Dark Trail" by Louis L'Amour. Those who like light romance of gothic novels may wish to try: "The Shining Years" or "For-saking All Others" by Emilie Loring; "On the Night of the Seventh Moon" by Victoria Holt; or "Lighthouse" by Eugenia Price. These large print books are in a special section close to the young adult collection. Ask a librarian for help, if you cannot readily locate them.

Persons who are blind or handicapped so that they cannot easily read or handle books and magazines, may borrow talking books, braille, or books on tape. You may pick up registration forms for these services at the library. Those who are legally blind must have their registration form signed by or include a statement from an ophthalmologist or optometrist. Those who have impaired vision or other physical handicaps may have their registration signed by a doctor, nurse, clergyman, social worker, teacher, librarian or other professional person. Information on where to mail registration forms is included with the registration blank. There is no charge for this service.

Those who are fighting the "battle of the bulge" may choose between two new titles. "Dr. Atkins Diet Revolution" by Robert C. Atkins has been a long time on the best-seller lists. Such famous persons as Doris Lilly, Buddy Hackett, and David Susskind lost weight by following the Doctor's recommendations. The author claims you can lose weight and still consume calorie laden foods that you like. His books tell you how.

Ed McMahon, seen on the Tonight Show with Johnny Carson, gives his version of "Slimming Down." He gives easy to follow advice for taking off and keeping off that excess poundage. Even if you do not want to lose weight, you may enjoy his breezy style of writing.

Witchcraft and the occult are subjects of Hal Lindsey's new commentary, "Satan is Alive and Well on Planet Earth." Lindsey, author of the best-seller "The Late Great Planet Earth," discusses the upsurge of weird rites, and rituals, psychic research, parapsychology, ESP, and the mystic philosophies and Eastern religions. This upsurge is happening on college campuses that few short years ago denied any belief in the existence of a supernatural God.

Cambodian Bombing To Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson, contending President Nixon is acting within his constitutional powers, indicates U.S. warplanes will pound Communist targets in Cambodia until a cease-fire is declared there.

Richardson accused the Communist side Wednesday of failing to carry out provisions of the Paris agreement requiring withdrawal of all foreign forces from Cambodia.

"I would certainly not be in a position to put any terminal date on it (U.S. bombing) at this time," Richardson told newsmen after testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Asst. Secretary of State Marshall Green told the House Asia subcommittee the bombing "is related to our desire to see a cease-fire brought about."

"It takes a combination of a clenched fist on one hand and an open palm on the other to bring about negotiations with these characters in these areas," Green said. "This is the mentality we are dealing with."

Green also told the subcommittee that State Department lawyers are drafting a statement on Nixon's authority to conduct the bombing.

U.S. warplanes have been bombing Communist troops in Cambodia for three weeks.

Every year some 7.6 million television sets are tossed on garbage heaps throughout the United States.

arranged by Jeffrey Furst.

"A Whale for the Killing" is the story of Farley Mowat's unsuccessful fight to save the life of a Fin Whale that became trapped in a tidal pond near his home. "The Serengeti Lion" by George B. Schaller is described as the most intensive study ever made of the lion. Included are chapters on the lion's rivals — the cheetah, the leopard, and the wild dogs, as well as information on the lion's prey. "The Cats of Africa" by Maitland Edey will probably have wider popular appeal. It contains many excellent color plates.

State Solons Get Urge For Office

COLUMBUS, Ohio ((AP)) — Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, has the state office itch. He'd like to soothe it by running for attorney general or state auditor.

Some other senators have the same yen which doesn't help clear up the political clouds obscuring the 1974 Republican state ticket.

Gillmor, who is testing his chances, "likes the Senate" and said he could be content to stay there. He will be in the middle of a four-year Senate term and would have nothing to lose, aside from money and effort, when the filing deadline rolls around next February.

The 33-year-old University of Michigan Law School graduate came to the Ohio Senate in 1968. He was re-elected to his second four-year term last year and now serves as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, makes no secret of his desire to become attorney general.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said he would like to run for auditor and would consider making a bid for lieutenant governor, if incumbent GOP Lt. Gov. John W. Brown doesn't seek re-election as reported. Maloney's Senate term expires in 1974.

Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, held up a "vanity" license plate as he explained his bill that would allow them to be sold for a $35 fee.

The plate, which showed what could be done with six letters, read CHUCK K.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, said of the sample:

"I don't want that. But I'm not sure I want anybody else driving around the state with it. I may be forced to buy it in self defense and then go buy me a good $10 one."

Gov. John J. Gilligan has been having legislators out to the mansion for cocktails and dinner, a few of them one night each week.

Rep. Walter D. McClaskey, R-86 Marion, one of the latest invitees, mentioned it at a House Education Committee meeting the next day.

"Mr. Chairman," he asked, "is there a page in the House? I had dinner with the governor last night and I need some Roloids."

"Mr. McClaskey," said Chairman Donald L. Pease, D-54 Oberlin, "you are out of order."

"I'm out of Roloids," corrected McClaskey. He then left the hearing room.

"You're out of the room," said Pease, determined to get the last word.

345 Gun Deaths In Week Shatters Old Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In one week this month, 345 men, women and children in the United States were shot to death. Some were the victims of armed robbers, some were policemen killed in the line of duty, some were shot during family quarrels.

Other gun deaths were more bizarre: a bartender machinegunned as he sat in his car at a Boston intersection, a teen-age couple executed as they knelt by a sleeping bag in the Arizona desert.

The 345 deaths, counted in an Associated Press survey the week of March 4-11, represented a 40 per cent increase over those counted in the last similar survey four years ago.

In each of three previous AP surveys, gunshot deaths totaled about 200: There were 199 in June 16-23, 1968; 192 in July 7-14, 1968, and 206 in June 15-22, 1969.

The dates for the AP surveys were chosen at random. The first two were taken in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The third came a year later after passage of a federal gun control law.

In the latest survey, 236 deaths were classified as homicides, 89 as suicides and 20 as accidents. While the total number of gunshot deaths rose 40 per cent since the 1969 survey, homicides climbed 44.5 per cent, suicides 33.7 per cent and accidental deaths 20 per cent.

The weapons included the small, cheap handguns called "Saturday night specials" and often used in holdups, a father's revolver in the hands of a curious infant, the family shotgun grabbed during a quarrel.

In most states, there are no attempts to compile comprehensive, statewide records of gun deaths until weeks or months after they occur. And, in many cases, the type of weapon is not always listed immediately.

But in the 345 gun deaths counted March 4-11, at least 128 — or 37.1 per cent — of the weapons used were handguns. Handguns were responsible for at least 41.4 per cent of the homicides, 25.8 per cent of the suicides, and 20.5 per cent of the accidental deaths.

Ten persons were killed during holdups, and five robbery suspects were killed by police.

In Washington, D.C., a bank robbery suspect pointed a gun at a police officer and pulled the trigger five times; each time the gun misfired. Before the man could pull the trigger again, the officer fired, killing one of two armed men who had fled from the scene of the robbery.

The 1968 federal gun control law banned interstate mail order sales of rifles, shotguns and all types of ammunition. It also banned most over-the-counter sales to out-of-state residents.

The 1968 law also banned imports of cheap, small caliber pistols, but a number of U.S. firms sell "Saturday night specials" assembled locally from parts shipped in from overseas. Attempts to get tighter controls have failed in Congress.

Last year, the Senate passed a bill to prohibit the sale of easily concealed handguns, ranging from the cheap "Saturday night specials" to expensive, snub-nosed handguns. But the House took no action on the bill, and its chief sponsor, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he sees no point in reintroducing it this year unless there are signs the House will pass it.

One bill reintroduced this year would require registration of all firearms and licensing of owners. The bill, proposed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., failed 78-11 last year.

No hearings have been scheduled in either of the houses on any of the proposals.

In the latest AP gun death survey, California reported the most deaths — 42 — during the week. Next came Texas with 33, Michigan 28, New York 25, Illinois 22, Ohio 19, Virginia 17, Louisiana 15, North Carolina 14, Georgia 12.

Of California's 42 deaths, 20 were homicides and 22 were suicides.

Michigan reported the most homicides — 22, followed by New York

Thieu Lays Cornerstones For Allied War Monuments

SAIGON (AP) — As 19 more planeloads of American soldiers left Vietnam Wednesday, President Nguyen Van Thieu laid the cornerstone for a 60-foot-high monument to the U.S. and South Vietnamese fighting men "and the unbreakable bond of friendship between our two nations."

Thieu told a crowd of several hundred diplomats, military leaders and schoolchildren that it would be a monument to the "enduring gratitude" and "deep appreciation of the Vietnamese people for the valiant solidarity of America."

The monument outside Tan Son Nhut Airbase, where the U. S. Command had its headquarters, reportedly will cost more than $2 million and is expected to be completed in a year. It will have two giant arms — one symbolizing the United States and the other South Vietnam — joining hands to form an arc.

Thieu said the 2½ million Americans who fought beside the South Vietnamese helped "bring about this day when the Republic of Vietnam can solidly stand on its feet and the aggressors finally have recognized the right for self-determination of the South Vietnamese people."

Earlier today Thieu laid two other cornerstones for monuments to those who fought on the side of his government: a 150-foot structure in downtown Saigon dedicated to the South Vietnamese people who struggled "to defend and strengthen" the country and a monument to the "Freedom Fighters" from the six nations that sent troops to "fight side by side with our soldiers" — the United States, South Korea, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

Meanwhile, Vietnam Press, the government news agency, reported that Thieu has fired three province chiefs for corruption and ordered an investigation of their activities prior to court action against them. Some political observers interpreted this as another attempt to improve Thieu's image before his visit to the United States next week.

The bankrupt estate wants repayment of money its attorneys said was paid to the investors by the Lowers plan.

John Guy, trustee for the estate, notified the investors by mail that their homes, cars and other property could be seized to meet judgments.

The defendants received some payment from the plan but not necessarily profits, Guy said.

Cincy Airport Red Cross Approves 1974 Budget Explosive Trial Opens

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A U.S. District Court heard testimony Thursday that an explosive device carried aboard a North Central airliner by a Michigan man could have caused a plane crash.

Tom McCormick, an explosive security specialist with the Federal Aviation Administration, said the device would have severely injured anyone within six feet and could have put the pilot and crew out of commission.

William Thomas Dalpiaz, 18, of Ironwood, Mich., faced charges Thursday at his trial for trying to carry a pistol, knife and an explosive simulator aboard the airliner Jan. 24 at Greater Cincinnati Airport.

U.S. District Court Judge Mac Swinford overruled a motion by Dalpiaz's attorneys earlier Thursday to suppress evidence. They contended Dalpiaz was illegally searched by airport authorities.

The judge ruled the security workers acted properly.

Judy Meadows, 26, a Pinkerton Agency employee, was the first prosecution witness called by Asst. U.S. Attorney Louis DeFalaise.

She called airport police when the Magnatometer, an electronic metal detector, set off an alarm on each of three passes by Dalpiaz.

The explosive simulator was found when airport police searched Dalpiaz, the FBI said.

Mel Ehrlich, chairman of the Water Safety Program, reported that plans for the summer session are at an advanced stage. The Circleville program will be same as last year and they hope to have a full swimming program in Ashville also. With Deercreek opening, there are plans to set up a daytime swimming program there. On April 11, there will be a Water Safety Instructors course in Chillicothe. It is open to anyone over 17, who holds a current Senior Lifesaving Certificate. This course is presented in addition to the Aquatic School in June. The board was gratified to learn that the Circleville

Sterilization Suit

Settled Out Of Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $3 million federal court suit by Carolyn Wade of Muskingum County against a judge and two doctors ended Thursday with an out-of-court settlement. Amount of the settlement was not disclosed.

Mrs. Wade, 24, alleged she was forced to have a court-ordered sterilization operation at the age of 16 after being diagnosed mentally retarded.

Pool has again approved swimming lessons there this summer.

The annual Red Cross meeting is planned for May 24. It is to be held at the Pickaway Arms.

Mrs. Lewis Dean announced that National Hospital Day will be observed at the Chillicothe VA Hospital on May 6th. At that time there will be conducted tours of the grounds and buildings to explain the work being done there.

Lori Owens, Volunteer president, expressed the need for more volunteers. Besides serving Berger Hospital, they will start working at Pickaway Manor also.

There continues to be a great need for more volunteer drivers for the two station wagons, and the board gave it's approval for an energetic canvassing drive through clubs and organizations to secure more volunteers for this purpose.

Mrs. Wolford reported on the Red Cross Regional Awards luncheon she attended recently in Columbus. The Pickaway County Chapter has won three different awards at that meeting.

Phil Pfeleger, the Red Cross representative to the Pickaway County Drug and Alcohol Education Committee, reported to the board the recent activities of that organization.

It's a fond farewell to the orange groves and balmy breezes—And as the sun sinks slowly into the west we find the traveling troubadours of hardwood and horsehide making their way back to the confines of their respective domains for the opening of the 1973 race for a berth in the World Series.

Everything begins in earnest Thursday afternoon when the cry of "play ball" resounds from the confines of Riverfront Stadium and the Reds and Giants take the field in the season opener.

From our perch in the bleacher seats we find the National League again shaping up as a battle between the Cincinnati Reds, in the West, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, in the East.

It appears that the Reds have added additional strength to last year's National League champions and, if anything, should be stronger than ever. The loss of Gary Nolan could hurt the pitching staff but we feel the ace righthander will overcome his arm difficulty and be back taking his place on the mound before long. There has been quite a bit of talk about the effect of the operation on Most Valuable Player Johnny Bench during the off season. Some people think it might have hampered his throwing ability but we think he'll be pegging the pill as always when the money is on the line.

The Houston Astros have the potential—and if the Reds falter, you can bet that the "Old Pro" Leo Durocher will have his boys knocking on the door.

Power and depth make the Pirates the choice in the National League East. Those bombers from the Steel City could keep the baseball makers working overtime as they rip, roar and rap their way into another title. The tragic loss of Roberto Clemente, in our book as good a player as ever came down the pike, could have a decided effect on his teammates. The loss of their team leader could cause a letdown or could inspire them to greater heights—Only time will tell.

The Chicago Cubs have shown signs of breaking out of their den for quite awhile and this could be the year that they get the fur up on the back of their necks and growl.

Well, that's the way we see the senior loop—And as soon as we repair our crystal ball, we'll see what it holds in store for the junior circuit.

Our "fearless" forecast—The colorful Sanders will gather the ganders in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Day Of Decision Nears For Anderson, Cincinnati

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Sparky Anderson's day of decision is approaching.

The Cincinnati Reds manager has to decide what to do to fill the hotly-contested shortstop position, then cut one player from the roster to make the major league limit of 25.

Last year, Dave Concepcion and Darrell Chaney were platooned at shortstop. Both have made it known they want the job on a regular basis and their bats have been doing most of the talking this spring.

"The competition is bringing out the best in both of them," said Anderson Thursday as the Reds posted a 5-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in Grapefruit League play.

Concepcion, who Anderson admitted leaning toward, had an unusual day, going 0-for-4, but made up for it by getting a base on balls, stealing third and scoring, then turning in some defensive gems.

Chaney got a hit in his only appearance to boost his spring average to .346. His 18 hits lead the Redlegs.

Concepcion is hitting .315, leads the team in runs scored, runs batted in with 14 and stolen bases with six.

Anderson said he doesn't like the idea of platooning the two again.

"I'm leaning toward the Venezuelan," he said, noting Concepcion's base stealing potential.

Pretty Young OSU Coed In Karate Hall Of Fame

CHICAGO (AP) — Judy Kolesar, 18, says the first question a man usually asks her is, "Could you kill me?"

She usually replies, "Yes, I could." But that hasn't stopped the men from asking for dates with the pretty Ohio State coed who was named to the hall of fame of the American Karate Association last weekend in Chicago.

Judy, who has shoulderlength brown hair, is 5-foot-5 and weighs 118 pounds. She credits karate for keeping her figure trim.

She became interested in karate after seeing a demonstration five years ago and began taking lessons from A. E. Vea of Youngstown, Ohio. Her coach says she since has captured more titles and awards than any American woman.

Her two biggest triumphs were capturing the form titles in 1971 at the World Open Championship in New York City and at the International Karate Championships in Long Beach, Calif.

"I have broken some boards and bricks, but I really enjoy the kata," she said. The kata form is the artistic division of karate that resembles gymnastics. The other divisions of the sport include self-defense and competition.

Miss Kolesar, a biology major, has never had to use her training privately and says she doesn't feel physically superior to men because of her skill.

"I still have my fears, but I have a lot of confidence in myself," she said. She says she has not been injured in a tournament "but I had my nose broken in training."

Her coach interrupted, "It wasn't really broken."

"It hurt an awfully lot," Judy said. She won her black belt in 1970 and moved up to a second degree. "Only a handful of women in America have second-degree black belts," said her coach.

Mr. Buttnell Wins Feature At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP)—Mr. Buttnell's opening break earned him top money in Thursday's $4,500 feature race at Latonia.

The winner bolted to an early lead and posted a two-length victory to return $7.20, $4.20 and $2.80.

Baby Face George was second, paying $11 and $4.60.

The daily double returned $60.60 on the 7-4 combination of Gringo and Swiftclip.

Poggino and Queen's Ruby rate as favorites in tonight's feature race.

Frericks Picks Fighting Irish

Circleville High Schools Tom Frericks has stated that he will accept an offer to attend the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., this fall. The signing is expected to take place next week.

Frericks, a stellar football, track and wrestling performer for the Tigers, has decided to cast his lot on the gridiron for the fighting Irish.

The 6-foot-5, 230-pound Frericks has been wooed by a number of top football powers in the country, including Ohio State, Michigan, South Carolina and Michigan State.

Old Friends On Opposite Sides In All-Star Contest

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Eddie Ratleff and Dwight Lamar, a pair of All-Americans who were high school teammates, will be on opposite sides Saturday in the annual coaches' college allstar basketball game.

The 6-foot-1 Lamar will play for the East and the 6-6 Ratleff for the West in the nationally televised contest sponsored by the National Association of Basketball Coaches in the University of Dayton Arena.

Lamar, the Southwestern Louisiana star and the only player to win both the college division and university division scoring titles, and Ratleff, twice All-American from Long Beach State, played for Columbus East High School.

Along with Nick Conner of Illinois, they led the Columbus school to 25 straight triumphs and the Ohio tournament championship in their senior seasons in 1969.

Adolph Rupp, who piled up a college record of 879 victories in 42 years at the University of Kentucky, comes out of coaching retirement to guide the East squad.

Rupp, 71, now serves as president of the Memphis Tams of the American Basketball Association after retiring at Kentucky in 1972.

Head coach of the West will be Stan Watts, Brigham Young athletic director and former mentor for the Cougars.

Fred Taylor of Ohio State, outgoing president of the coaches, will assist Watts while Joe Vancisin of Yale, incoming president, will be Rupp's assistant.

AL Pennant Races May Be Mad Scramble

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been so long since the Chicago White Sox won a pennant that they'd probably settle for a half-pennant this year. That's probably what they'll get, too.

Sluggish Richie ("Call me Dick") Allen is happy, pitcher Wilbur Wood is hearty and the Oakland A's are not as strong as you might think.

That adds up to a West title for the White Sox in the American League,

Satellite Golf

Tournament Set

Completion of plans for the Little American Golf Classic, a Second Tour (satellite) event in association with the 12-year-old American Golf Classic, has been announced by tournament chairman R. V. Thomas.

The event will be played June 18 and 19, at Village Country Club, a new golf and housing development between Akron and Canton near Uniontown.

Offering a $10,000 purse, the two-day, 36-hole event will send its top five finishers 10 miles north to Firestone Country Club to compete in the $160,000 major event June 21-24.

Assisting Thomas will be vice-chairmen James A. Oaks and George Swallow. An organization encompassing 30 separate committees has been set up and preparations for the event are well under way.

The Little American Golf Classic will host a field of about 100 touring professionals not eligible for the major event, which has returned to the prestigious Invitational format for 1973.

With a first prize of $2,000, the LAGC operation will be assisted by the joint participation of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) of Akron, which will share in the proceeds from the event.

Jimmy's Blaze Winner

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The daily double produced $111.80 on the 4-3 combination of African Sunshine and Deanna Volo at Lebanon Raceway.

Jimmy's Blaze won the $1,000 feature race. It was the first of two straight wins for driver Omar Hiteaman.

their first champions of any kind since 1959.

"This is the strongest offensive team in White Sox history," says Manager Chuck Tanner. Only those who saw the 1919 edition with Shoeless Joe Jackson might dispute the statement, but the White Sox do have power to burn for the 1973 baseball season.

Allen, the AL's MVP last year with 37 home runs, 113 runs batted and a .308 batting average, signed a three-year contract in the fancy $675,000 neighborhood this year and showed his gratitude by reporting to spring training camp on time. You knew he was really grateful, because he hadn't done that since his rookie season with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Joining the free-swinging first baseman in the lineup this year will be Bill Melton, who's coming back from injury, and Ken Henderson obtained in a trade with the San Francisco Giants. To obtain the slugging Henderson, the White Sox gave up pitcher Tom Bradley in a deal some think may have been lopsided in the Giants' favor. But Tanner doesn't think so. He's planning to get more work out of two 20-game winners, Wilbur Wood and Stan Bahnsen.

The A's are the defending World Champions, but may have dealt themselves out of another West championship with a puzzling, off-season trade that sent leading home run hitter Mike Epstein to Texas for relief pitcher Horacio Pina. Epstein had a personality clash with Manager Dick Williams last year, but the trade made the A's look ridiculous in some quarters.

Although obtained catcher Ray Fosse from Cleveland in a later deal, the A's still lack the proper long-ball clout to be a pennant-winner. Reggie Jackson, now the only palpable home run threat in the lineup, will be troubled by the absence of Epstein. With no big bouncer hitting behind the left-handed slugger, the opposition can more easily pitch around him.

The A's still have some of the best pitching in the American League with the likes of Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Vida Blue, John "Blue Moon" Odom and Ken Holtzman and a brilliant relief corps headed by Rollie Fingers. That's what will make the West interesting to the end.

While the West shapes up as a likely two-team fight, the East is every man for himself. No one in particular has an apparent lock on the crown and it could be an instant replay of last year when four teams went down to the bitter end before Detroit pulled it out.

The Baltimore Orioles might be given a slight edge because of their potential, with the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Tigers involved in the mad scramble.

The Orioles' perennial pennant-winners fell apart last season with every regular having sub-par seasons. It shouldn't happen again this season and besides the Orioles have secured a power hitter to drive in runs for their tough pitching staff-catcher Earl Williams.

The Yankees probably are the most improved team in the east, with the acquisition of outfielder Felipe Alou and third baseman Graig Nettles. With Bobby Murcer coming off his finest slugging year, New York has its most powerful offensive unit since the Mantle-Maris days.

The Red Sox, who took the Tigers down to the final series of the year before wilting in 1972, have a veteran team that might be stronger with the acquisition of Orlando Cepeda. The righthanded slugger will be the designated pinch-hitter in cozy Fenway Park.

With their hitting, good defense and a pitching staff headed by Marty Pattin, the Red Sox figure to finish ahead of the Tigers. Detroit's pitching is suspect, despite the presence of 22-game winner Mickey Lolich. The Tigers, also, appear to have too many players who have seen their better days.

The Cleveland Indians and Milwaukee Brewers figure to hold up the East. Gaylord Perry, a 24-game winner, is one of the few bright spots in the Cleveland picture. But there's some suspicion that the righthander can repeat another year like that at the age of 35.

The Indians gave up too much in trades to be called a contender and might have a tough time, even, keeping ahead of Milwaukee. The Brewers, also, were guilty of trading away too much for too little. They obtained infielder Don Money from the Philadelphia Phillies but at a price that puzzled some savvy baseball folks. Jim Lonborg, the Brewers' top

Assisting Thomas will be vice-chairmen James A. Oaks and George Swallow. An organization encompassing 30 separate committees has been set up and preparations for the event are well under way.

The Little American Golf Classic will host a field of about 100 touring professionals not eligible for the major event, which has returned to the prestigious Invitational format for 1973.

With a first prize of $2,000, the LAGC operation will be assisted by the joint participation of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) of Akron, which will share in the proceeds from the event.

Opened in 1971, the course stretches 7,217 yards with a par of 72. Well-bunkered and with large greens, the Edward Alt-designed layout features water hazards on 13 of its 18 holes.

Jimmy's Blaze Winner

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The daily double produced $111.80 on the 4-3 combination of African Sunshine and Deanna Volo at Lebanon Raceway. Jimmy's Blaze won the $1,000 feature race. It was the first of two straight wins for driver Omar Hiteman.

their first champions of any kind since 1959.

"This is the strongest offensive team in White Sox history," says Manager Chuck Tanner. Only those who saw the 1919 edition with Shoeless Joe Jackson might dispute the statement, but the White Sox do have power to burn for the 1973 baseball season.

Allen, the AL's MVP last year with 37 home runs, 113 runs batted and a .308 batting average, signed a three-year contract in the fancy $675,000 neighborhood this year and showed his gratitude by reporting to spring training camp on time. You knew he was really grateful, because he hadn't done that since his rookie season with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Joining the free-swinging first baseman in the lineup this year will be Bill Melton, who's coming back from injury, and Ken Henderson obtained in a trade with the San Francisco Giants. To obtain the slugging Henderson, the White Sox gave up pitcher Tom Bradley in a deal some think may have been lopsided in the Giants' favor. But Tanner doesn't think so. He's planning to get more work out of two 20-game winners, Wilbur Wood and Stan Bahnsen.

The A's are the defending World Champions, but may have dealt themselves out of another West championship with a puzzling, off-season trade that sent leading home run hitter Mike Epstein to Texas for relief pitcher Horacio Pina. Epstein had a personality clash with Manager Dick Williams last year, but the trade made the A's look ridiculous in some quarters.

Although obtained catcher Ray Fosse from Cleveland in a later deal, the A's still lack the proper long-ball clout to be a pennant-winner. Reggie Jackson, now the only palpable home run threat in the lineup, will be troubled by the absence of Epstein. With no big bouncer hitting behind the lefthanded slugger, the opposition can more easily pitch around him.

The A's still have some of the best pitching in the American League with the likes of Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Vida Blue, John "Blue Moon" Odum and Ken Holtzman and a brilliant relief corps headed by Rollie Fingers. That's what will make the West interesting to the end.

While the West shapes up as a likely two-team fight, the East is every man for himself. No one in particular has an apparent lock on the crown and it could be an instant replay of last year when four teams went down to the bitter end before Detroit pulled it out.

The Baltimore Orioles might be given a slight edge because of their potential, with the New York Yankees, Boston Red Sox and Tigers involved in the mad scramble.

The Orioles' perennial pennant-winners fell apart last season with every regular having sub-par seasons. It shouldn't happen again this season and besides the Orioles have secured a power hitter to drive in runs for their tough pitching staff-catcher Earl Williams.

The Yankees probably are the most improved team in the east, with the acquisition of outfielder Felipe Alou and third baseman Graig Nettles. With Bobby Murcer coming off his finest slugging year, New York has its most powerful offensive unit since the Mantle-Maris days.

The Red Sox, who took the Tigers down to the final series of the year before wilting in 1972, have a veteran team that might be stronger with the acquisition of Orlando Cepeda. The righthanded slugger will be the designated pinch-hitter in cozy Fen-

A new club was begun this past Monday at CHS called Future Secretaries of America.

Sponsored by the National Secretaries Association, Roundtown Chapter of Circleville, FSA is for all high school girls interested in office personnel and secretarial work.

The first meeting was held Monday night with adviser, Mrs. Brobst, to become acquainted with the club. The organization will have their first group meeting April 2.

FSA is a new club started at CHS and later possibly branching out to the county schools into one large group. Girls who are members in high school become provisional members for two years after graduation if they continue to work. Otherwise, the girls must work two years in order to become provisional members.

1974 Yearbook Work Begun With Ann Yates As Editor

By JUNE BRUDZINSKI

The 1973 edition of the "Circle" has been put to bed, but annual staffers have little time to rest, as they are already formulating plans for the 1974 book.

It will be a difficult task to put together anything "bigger and better" than this year's masterpiece, but four dedicated staffers have been chosen to try.

Shouldered with the responsibility of the production will be Ann Yates. The 17-year-old editor resides at 126 E. Mound with her parents Mr. and Mrs. David L. Yates and three Siamese cats.

Banquet Held For Winter Team Sports

The annual Winter Sports Banquet was held March 20 at CHS honoring the basketball, wrestling and cheerleading squads.

The carry-in banquet was held in the cafeteria followed by the program in the auditorium. Heading the night's agenda was speaker Coach Larry Cook. He based his talk on winning, giving his philosophy and stressing that winning is not overemphasized if approached with the right attitude.

Following Coach Cook, cheerleading squads were introduced by Miss Carol Parker. The wrestling squad was presented by Coach Brent Bell with Coaches Dennis Stewart and John Lawhorn introducing their basketball teams.

In wrestling, senior Dave Webb received the most valuable player award compiling a new school record of 84 wins, seven losses, and one tie over a three-year period. He also captured the trophy for most take-downs during the season with a total of 54.

Tom Frericks earned the trophy for most pins in one season with 16.

Dave Truex was the most valuable player for the '72-73 Tiger basketball team. He also won top honors in assists with 52 and received a trophy for his spot on the SCOL first team.

Truex tied with Greg Hoskins for the rebounding trophy each pulling down 218 rebounds during the year. Hoskins' 96 offensive rebounds set a new school record. Hoskins was also voted by his teammates as the most improved player on the team.

Co-captain Dan Graham was voted the best defensive player for the Tigers. He also received a trophy for his berth on the SCOL second team. Robin Martin was awarded a trophy for his berth on the SCOL second team. Robin Martin was awarded a trophy for his 85.3 per cent foul shooting record. On the reserve team, "Willis" Reed was voted the most improved player with Perry Hoskins capturing the defensive trophy.

Other honors during the evening went to Dave Webb, Dave Truex and Glen Gillespie for earning six varsity letters and maintaining a "B" average throughout their high school career. Also introduced were Robin Martin and Doug Radabaugh who were selected co-captains of the '73-74 basketball season.

As a junior this year she has been involved with GAA, varsity cheerleading, Latin Club, Junior Class play and Student Relations committee. Ann began with the "Circle" as a junior high representative and is presently assistant to the editor.

For the 1974 book she plans to have "Yellow Pages" in the ad section, no club copy and "just an all-around good yearbook like June B's."

After graduation Ann is considering Denison University as where she would like to study the classics.

On the business end of the 1974 "Circle" will be Kay Downing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Downing, 163 W. Mound. Her second year on the staff, Kay has been learning the ropes in order to carry out her plans as business manager next year, which include enlarging the ad section and increasing book sales.

At school, the 17-year-old junior participates in GAA, Girls' Stage Band and NHS. Kay works at Pickaway Arms, belongs to 4-H and Junior Leaders, and enjoys sewing and outdoor sports. She hopes to attend college and pursue a career of law.

"Wowie, zowie, my mom will be proud of me!" was the reaction of sophomore Ty Foster when he was chosen to be 1974 assistant editor.

In addition to gaining experience for the eventual editorship, Ty will have the new duties of photographic coordinator, or in simpler terms, hounding the photographers for more pictures. He, like Ann, also started as a junior high representative.

Along with six of nine brothers and sisters and parents Mr. and Mrs. George Huskey, Ty lives at 322 Meadow Lane. He lists his activities and interests as band, Key Club and Alice Cooper.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean A. Bushee, Fair Lane, Beth Bushee was chosen as next year's assistant business manager. She said, "I'll have to learn all I need to know, so that when I'm the business manager, I'll do everything right!" A second-year staffer, part of Beth's duties will include the Senior Parents Patrons' page.

The petite sophomore is active in Latin Club and EMS and likes to swim and play tennis in her spare time.

In answer to numerous questions, the annual is scheduled to arrive the week of May 21. There are a limited number of extras available; anyone wishing one should contact Miss Bower, Deb Brian or June Brudzinski.

DECA Students Work As Cafeteria Cashiers

RUTH ANN HENN and DIANNA KIGER

By Teresa Mallett and Marcia Plescia

Two CHS students whose hard work sometimes goes unnoticed by their fellow students are the cashiers in the CHS cafeteria.

The two girls are Ruth Henn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henn, 249 Nicholas Drive, and Dianna Kiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kiger, 314 Logan St. Both girls are senior DECA students.

As cashiers their job includes filling the money boxes with change, adding up the cost of each person's lunch, collecting the money, taking free lunch money to the office and counting and wrapping the money. They work both lunch periods under the direction of Mrs. White, head cook.

The girls received their jobs through DECA. Mrs. White needed someone to act as a cashier; so she asked Mrs. Greenwood, DECA advisor, for some suggestions. Mrs. Greenwood then sent Ruth and Dianna to Mrs. White. Last year, Ruth had substituted for Becky McCoy, a 1972 graduate of CHS. This is Dianna's first year.

After graduation, Ruth hopes to obtain a job at General Electric, and Dianna plans to work at Murphy's where she is presently employed.

Also "volunteering" their services in the cafeteria are the new Stooze Club members. These boys not only get the old members their lunches, but they also help clean up the lunch-room. Some of their chores include working in the kitchen, putting salt and pepper shakers and other items in their proper places, and they assist in the cleaning off of tables.

All of these students are a great asset to the operation of the CHS cafeteria.

Middletown Sets Hospital Work

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Middletown Hospital is to undergo a $10 million improvement project and despite a $3 to $4 per day increase for each patient, costs will stay well below the medical average for the area.

That's the report from the Health Planning Association of the Central Ohio River Valley, which endorsed the plan Wednesday.

Even with the increase, says CORVA, the hospital will be approximately $10 below the average cost per patient of hospitals covered by Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio.

Girls Practice For Track Events

Spring is here and while the boys are running, golfing, and batting, the girls are getting their muscles in shape for their own 1973 track season. Two years ago, CHS had a girls' track team and this year it has been renewed under the leadership of Coach Grandstaff. Tryout practices began this past week and the events and the girls will be participating in the 50, 75, and 100 yard dashes; 220 and 440 yard runs; high and jumps; basketball, softball, discus and shot throws. Miss Grandstaff is working on a schedule and so far these are the meets planned: April 17 — home meet against Teays Valley and Logan Elm; April 28 — Logan Elm Invitation; May 19 — Teays Valley Invitational.

Crepe Suzettes On Class Menu

By BARBARA SOUDERS On March 8 Miss Nye's French I through IV classes held a French dinner at CHS. The site for the affair was the high school cafeteria which was decorated like a "French Gala" by the fifth period French I class. Some of the delicacies enjoyed at the dinner were: snails, crepes suzettes, beef braised in beer, and "coq au van." After eating, eighth period French II held a game called "Lingo." The junior high French I sang and acted out a traditional French drinking song, and the French III and IV classes performed their original translation of "The Emperor's New Clothes."

Invited guests to the banquet were Mrs. Carol Mader and Mrs. Winifred Breegle.

Juror Has Own Trial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Charles J. Harlan served two days as a juror in a malpractice suit in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court before being excused from duty — to stand trial in Criminal Court. Harlan, 18, left Judge Homer Brown's courtroom Wednesday to appear as a defendant in a narcotics case before Judge John W. O'Brien. Harlan pleaded guilty and was sentenced to probation without a verdict to allow his record to be cleared if he successfully completes the sentence. Court officials said afterward that the youth still may serve on a jury this term, although not in the case from which he was excused. Judge Brown remarked that it was the first time in his 22 years on the bench that a juror asked to be excused to appear as a defendant.

Income Tax Repeal Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A group opposing Ohio's personal income tax hopes to take advantage of taxpayers' April woes to repeal the tax and substitute another in its place. James Stefanopoulos, head of Repeal Ohio's Unfair Tax (ROUT), submitted an amendment to abolish the state income tax to the Secretary of state's office Wednesday. The newest repeal proposal was submitted a year to the day a similar amendment was filed with the administrative office. The first amendment was placed before voters last November and was defeated.

"People are filling out their tax forms now and they can really see how much of a burden the tax really is," said the Cincinnati businessman. "I don't think apathy is going to be a problem at all."

ROUT's amendment would abolish the present state income tax, require that any future income tax be non-graduated and provide that any new tax must be approved by Ohio voters. Stefanopoulos also said future taxes would have to be specified to the voters as to why the money was needed, and where it was to go. "A little honesty in packaging," he called it.

Stefanopoulos said the main complaint of his group was that the current income tax funds are parceled out by the governor and the General Assembly, "who are subject to pressure from special interest groups."

He claimed half of the $1.2 billion generated by the tax so far has gone to expand welfare programs "not to aid schools like was advocated when the tax was first proposed."

He said his group would begin circulating petitions to collect the necessary 318,413 signatures before Aug. 8, in order to place the proposal on the November ballot.

Cost of the petitions would be "about $1,000" he said. Expenses would be borne by ROUT's five committee members and other interested persons, he said.

A picture of life in the prison camps began to emerge as the last of the known prisoners were freed. The men released earlier had declined to comment on their conditions for fear of jeopardizing the safety of those still in captivity. The last of the 587 Americans whom Hanoi reported captives at the time of the signing of the cease-fire agreements two months ago landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines this morning. The 67 U.S. prisoners of war arrived aboard two C141 transports at their first stop on the way home. The Viet Cong has announced that another man — not named on previous lists — will be freed this weekend.

Air Force Lt. Col. Norman L. Wells of Unionville, Va., who was taken prisoner on Aug. 29, 1966, described life in captivity during a recent interview held for release when the last of the POWs returned. He said each camp had a definite command structure with a senior ranking officer in each cell, each building and each camp. Complete staffs were drawn up, Wells said, along the lines of an Air Force wing. "It even provided for units that might be detached from the wing" — sent to other camps — Wells said.

Wells noted "a strong organization with very definite leadership was possible."

Capt. Robert A. Abbott of Decker-ville, Mich., who was captured April

30, 1967, described a similar set-up during a recent interview. "We had a strong military organization in the camps," he said, "even though the Vietnamese wouldn't recognize it or allow it. We had a wing commander set up, squadrons set up, flights set up. It worked just like a military organization. Things went up channels and down channels. "This helped us keep our minds busy, helped us to do something and maybe this helped us to maintain our will and good attitude toward the military." Wells said each prison cell had a public address speaker and the North Vietnamese "pumped a lot of garbage through that thing; plus, for a time, we heard the Voice of Vietnam aimed at soldiers in South Vietnam." Wells said the Voice of Vietnam broadcasts to the POWs were discontinued in June or July of 1968.

MY MINUTE MESSAGE

FRIEND, DO YOU KNOW THAT YOU CAN KNOW THE LORD PERSONALLY? Do you know Him? Maybe you want to say, "I am no heathen." Of course that is what we are, if we do not know Him — not about Him. We will never know Him by means of religion. If it were possible to follow our religion for one hundred years we would still not know Him. There must be a personal introduction, and that we may gloriously experience if we are prepared to renounce sin, self, and Satan, then seek Him in penitence and faith. The introduction will be blessed, with abounding joy, and yet this is only the beginning. We can know the Lord, in the truest sense of the word, as we know others — by living with Him and experiencing His fellowship and love. How wonderful must have been the knowledge of Enoch who walked with God for three hundred years, then slipped away, above the gate of death, to dwell with Him forever. We can never be intimate with the Lord and intimate with the world at the same time. We must decide which we desire to know. If we know Him the world will know us not (1 John 3:1). Job said, "I know that my Redeemer liveth . . ." (Job. 19:25). . . . for I know whom I have believed" (2 Tim. 1:12). "And hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments" (1 John 2:3). "He that saith, I know Him, and keepeth not His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him (1 John 2:4). One lady said, "I would give the world to know Him." Another true lover of Christ said, "That is exactly what it cost me." How excellent is this knowledge! You too may know Him — if you will. (See John 7:17).

Juror Has Own Trial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Charles J. Harlan served two days as a juror in a malpractice suit in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court before being excused from duty — to stand trial in Criminal Court.

Harlan, 18, left Judge Homer Brown's courtroom Wednesday to appear as a defendant in a narcotics case before Judge John W. O'Brien. Harlan pleaded guilty and was sentenced to probation without a verdict to allow his record to be cleared if he successfully completes the sentence.

Court officials said afterward that the youth still may serve on a jury this term, although not in the case from which he was excused.

Judge Brown remarked that it was the first time in his 22 years on the bench that a juror asked to be excused to appear as a defendant.

Income Tax Repeal Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A group opposing Ohio's personal income tax hopes to take advantage of taxpayers' April woes to repeal the tax and substitute another in its place.

James Stefanopoulos, head of Repeal Ohio's Unfair Tax (ROUT), submitted an amendment to abolish the state income tax to the Secretary of state's office Wednesday.

The newest repeal proposal was submitted a year to the day a similar amendment was filed with the administrative office. The first amendment was placed before voters last November and was defeated.

"People are filling out their tax forms now and they can really see how much of a burden the tax really is," said the Cincinnati businessman. "I don't think apathy is going to be a problem at all."

ROUT's amendment would abolish the present state income tax, require that any future income tax be non-graduated and provide that any new tax must be approved by Ohio voters.

Stefanopoulos also said future taxes would have to be specified to the voters as to why the money was needed, and where it was to go. "A little honesty in packaging," he called it.

Stefanopoulos said the main complaint of his group was that the current income tax funds are parceled out by the governor and the General Assembly, "who are subject to pressure from special interest groups."

He claimed half of the $1.2 billion generated by the tax so far has gone to expand welfare programs "not to aid schools like was advocated when the tax was first proposed."

He said his group would begin circulating petitions to collect the necessary 318,413 signatures before Aug. 8, in order to place the proposal on the November ballot.

Cost of the petitions would be "about $1,000," he said. Expenses would be borne by ROUT's five committee members and other interested persons, he said.

fit, former POWs disclosed Thursday. There were some attempts by the Communists at brainwashing, but they were ineffective, the men indicated.

A picture of life in the prison camps began to emerge as the last of the known prisoners were freed. The men released earlier had declined to comment on their conditions for fear of jeopardizing the safety of those still in captivity.

The last of the 587 Americans whom Hanoi reported captives at the time of the signing of the cease-fire agreements two months ago landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines this morning. The 67 U.S. prisoners of war arrived aboard two C141 transports at their first stop on the way home. The Viet Cong has announced that another man — not named on previous lists — will be freed this weekend.

Girls Practice For Track Events

Spring is here and while the boys are running, golfing, and batting, the girls are getting their muscles in shape for their own 1973 track season.

Two years ago, CHS had a girls' track team and this year it has been renewed under the leadership of Coach Grandstaff.

Tryout practices began this past week and the events and the girls will be participating in the 50, 75, and 100 yard dashes; 220 and 440 yard runs; high and jumps; basketball, softball, discus and shot throws.

Miss Grandstaff is working on a schedule and so far these are the meets planned: April 17 — home meet against Teays Valley and Logan Elm; April 28 — Logan Elm Invitation; May 19 — Teays Valley Invitational.

Crepe Suzettes On Class Menu

By BARBARA SOUDERS

On March 8 Miss Nye's French I through IV classes held a French dinner at CHS. The site for the affair was the high school cafeteria which was decorated like a "French Gala" by the fifth period French I class.

Some of the delicacies enjoyed at the dinner were: snails, crepes suzettes, beef braised in beer, and "coq au van."

After eating, eighth period French II held a game called "Lingo." The junior high French I sang and acted out a traditional French drinking song, and the French III and IV classes performed their original translation of "The Emperor's New Clothes."

Invited guests to the banquet were Mrs. Carol Mader and Mrs. Winifred Breegle.

Ohio Just About Average In Number Of Gun Deaths

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When it comes to shooting each other, Ohioans are just about average, a survey showed this month.

Nineteen persons were shot to death in the state during the week ending March 11. This placed the sixth largest state also sixth in the nation in gun deaths.

Thirteen of the deaths that week were homicides, five were suicides and one was accidental.

Paul C. Cole, of Sharonville, was among those shot to death that week. Police said Cole opened his car door at a drive-in theater to get some popcorn, the door struck another car, and its occupant pulled out a pistol and shot Cole.

Also that week, John McFadden shot and killed Tina Hamblin, 4, and Linda McFadden, 18 months, then took his own life, Toledo police reported.

Luke Boatman, 21, of Toledo, was shot four times when he allegedly tried to stop an argument between a man and woman in a Toledo bar, police said.

A 62-year-old Columbus carryout owner was killed and his clerk was wounded by a gunman who took nothing.

John W. Sterling, 21, had been working at a Lima service station for two days when he was shot to death. Police are not certain robbery was the motive there either.

Other victims that week included a member of a Cleveland motorcycle gang believed to be the victim of a gang war; the co-owner of a Dayton bar who was shot six times with a pistol, and 18-month-old Valerie Ball, of Byesville, who died of a gunshot wound after her three-year old brother took a pistol from the car of a family friend.

Any "respectable" citizen over 21 can buy a gun in Ohio, said Officer

Paul Clark of the Columbus Police Training Academy. Federal law prevents felons from purchasing firearms, he added.

A person may own any firearm that has not been restricted by the federal government. Illegal weapons include machine guns, and shotguns or rifles with sawed-off barrels.

In Ohio, Clark said, "There is no such thing as a permit to carry a gun."

A person caught carrying a concealed weapon would have to prove he had good reason to carry it.

"The court would have to decide" if the reason were valid, Clark said.

There is no law regarding carrying a non-concealed weapon. But Clark said anyone carrying on the street would probably be arrested as a "suspicious person. It wouldn't be a normal act."

In 1972, Ohio toughened its gun laws by adding a consecutive term of 1-to-3 years if a felony is committed with a firearm—loaded or unloaded.

Armed robbery also became a non-probationary offense.

Eckhart Says GOP Politics Responsible For Defeat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The ousted chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said Thursday five Senate Republicans had planned to vote for his appointment, but were pressured by the GOP leadership to reject him.

Henry Eckhart said he found out that the five GOP senators supported his appointment during a party caucus, but were ordered to get in line with the majority.

If the five had voted for Eckhart's appointment to a new six-year term, he would still be commission chairman. However, the five joined their 12 colleagues to cast a straight party vote against 16 Democratic senators.

"I felt there were a number of Republican senators who desired to be reasonable and nonpartisan," he said, "Unfortunately, they had a party caucus and made it a matter of party policy."

Eckhart said, "One senator was told he would never get a bill passed in this session of the legislature if he broke with party policy. This was told by the senator to a close and reliable source who relayed it directly to me."

He declined to name that senator or the other four who planned to support his reappointment.

Eckhart would have been secure as commission chairman for another four years if he had not accepted an appointment to a new six-year term.

Gov. John Gilligan took the action in February to prolong Eckhart's tenure as chairman and to give him a pay raise from $22,880 to $25,763.

He was originally named to the commission in March, 1971, but the Senate never acted during the last legislative session to either approve or reject his appointment.

When the 109th General Assembly went out of existence last December, his position was secure. But when Gilligan recommended him for a new term, the Senate was given another chance to act on his appointment.

Eckhart said the maneuver was "worth doing" even though he lost his job of regulating utility companies in Ohio.

"It was partially for the purpose of testing whether I was supported by the legislature," he said. "To do that, the legislature had to confirm me and approve my increased budget request. I assumed if they gave me one, they would give me the other."

He added, "I couldn't have stayed on and worked as a mere functionary had the legislature not granted my budget."

Soldier Claims Beatings Brought Antiwar Talks

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The attorney of returned prisoner-of-war Army Spec. 4 Michael Branch says the Highland Heights, Ky., man admits making anti-war broadcasts, "but only to stop the beatings."

"He tells me," said Attorney William Hagedorn of Newport, Ky., "he made several, but didn't think they were broadcast because he was crying so hard when he made the tapes."

Hagedorn also announced Thursday that he plans to go to court Monday if Branch is not released by the Army over the weekend.

Hagedorn is angry over a press conference he said was called off by the Army at Ft. Knox Wednesday. He questioned whether Branch "is a prisoner or a patient" at the Army hospital.

Steelworkers OK Landmark Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials of the United Steelworkers Union and the nation's Big Ten steelmakers say their newly negotiated bargaining agreement is an historic move toward uninterrupted production in the basic steel industry.

"We have today embarked on an unprecedented experiment that we think will prove there is a better way for labor and management to negotiate contracts," said USW President I. W. Abel in announcing the overwhelming approval of the Experimental Negotiating Proposal Thursday by 600 union leaders representing the nation's 500,000 basic steelworkers.

Joining Abel in announcing approval of the proposal was R. Heath Larry, the basic steel industry's chief negotiator.

"What we are doing certainly should work for the benefit of the employees, the steel companies, customers and the nation," Larry said.

The plan provides an end to industrywide strikes and lockouts for four years — until July 1977 — and, in return, guarantees workers a minimum wage hike of 3 per cent each August. The current cost of living escalator and incentive pay is carried over and each steelworker will receive a $150 bonus in the first pay period after Sept. 30, 1974.

Ohio Just About Average In Number Of Gun Deaths

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When it comes to shooting each other, Ohioans are just about average, a survey showed this month.

Nineteen persons were shot to death in the state during the week ending March 11. This placed the sixth largest state also sixth in the nation in gun deaths.

Thirteen of the deaths that week were homicides, five were suicides and one was accidental.

Paul C. Cole, of Sharonville, was among those shot to death that week. Police said Cole opened his car door at a drive-in theater to get some popcorn, the door struck another car, and its occupant pulled out a pistol and shot Cole.

Also that week, John McFadden shot and killed Tina Hamblin, 4, and Linda McFadden, 18 months, then took his own life, Toledo police reported.

Luke Boatman, 21, of Toledo, was shot four times when he allegedly tried to stop an argument between a man and woman in a Toledo bar, police said.

A 62-year-old Columbus carryout owner was killed and his clerk was wounded by a gunman who took nothing.

John W. Sterling, 21, had been working at a Lima service station for two days when he was shot to death. Police are not certain robbery was the motive there either.

Other victims that week included a member of a Cleveland motorcycle gang believed to be the victim of a gang war; the co-owner of a Dayton bar who was shot six times with a pistol, and 18-month-old Valerie Ball, of Byesville, who died of a gunshot wound after her three-year old brother took a pistol from the car of a family friend.

Any "respectable" citizen over 21 can buy a gun in Ohio, said Officer

Paul Clark of the Columbus Police Training Academy. Federal law prevents felons from purchasing firearms, he added.

A person may own any firearm that has not been restricted by the federal government. Illegal weapons include machine guns, and shotguns or rifles with sawed-off barrels.

In Ohio, Clark said, "There is no such thing as a permit to carry a gun."

A person caught carrying a concealed weapon would have to prove he had good reason to carry it.

"The court would have to decide" if the reason were valid, Clark said.

There is no law regarding carrying a non-concealed weapon. But Clark said anyone carrying on the street would probably be arrested as a "suspicious person. It wouldn't be a normal act."

In 1972, Ohio toughened its gun laws by adding a consecutive term of 1-to-3 years if a felony is committed with a firearm—loaded or unloaded.

Armed robbery also became a non-probationary offense.

Eckhart Says GOP Politics Responsible For Defeat

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The ousted chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said Thursday five Senate Republicans had planned to vote for his appointment, but were pressured by the GOP leadership to reject him.

Henry Eckhart said he found out that the five GOP senators supported his appointment during a party caucus, but were ordered to get in line with the majority.

If the five had voted for Eckhart's appointment to a new six-year term, he would still be commission chairman. However, the five joined their 12 colleagues to cast a straight party vote against 16 Democratic senators.

"I felt there were a number of Republican senators who desired to be reasonable and nonpartisan," he said, "Unfortunately, they had a party caucus and made it a matter of party policy."

Eckhart said, "One senator was told he would never get a bill passed in this session of the legislature if he broke with party policy. This was told by the senator to a close and reliable source who relayed it directly to me."

He declined to name that senator or the other four who planned to support his reappointment.

Eckhart would have been secure as commission chairman for another four years if he had not accepted an appointment to a new six-year term.

Gov. John Gilligan took the action in February to prolong Eckhart's tenure as chairman and to give him a pay raise from $22,880 to $25,763.

He was originally named to the commission in March, 1971, but the Senate never acted during the last legislative session to either approve or reject his appointment.

When the 109th General Assembly went out of existence last December, his position was secure. But when Gilligan recommended him for a new term, the Senate was given another chance to act on his appointment.

Eckhart said the maneuver was "worth doing" even though he lost his job of regulating utility companies in Ohio.

"It was partially for the purpose of testing whether I was supported by the legislature," he said. "To do that, the legislature had to confirm me and approve my increased budget request. I assumed if they gave me one, they would give me the other."

He added, "I couldn't have stayed on and worked as a mere functionary had the legislature not granted my budget."

Steelworkers OK Landmark Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials of the United Steelworkers Union and the nation's Big Ten steelmakers say their newly negotiated bargaining agreement is an historic move toward uninterrupted production in the basic steel industry.

"We have today embarked on an unprecedented experiment that we think will prove there is a better way for labor and management to negotiate contracts," said USW President I. W. Abel in announcing the overwhelming approval of the Experimental Negotiating Proposal Thursday by 600 union leaders representing the nation's 500,000 basic steelworkers.

Joining Abel in announcing approval of the proposal was R. Heath Larry, the basic steel industry's chief negotiator.

"What we are doing certainly should work for the benefit of the employees, the steel companies, customers and the nation," Larry said.

The plan provides an end to industrywide strikes and lockouts for four years — until July 1977 — and, in return, guarantees workers a minimum wage hike of 3 per cent each August. The current cost of living escalator and incentive pay is carried over and each steelworker will receive a $150 bonus in the first pay period after Sept. 30, 1974.

Beatings Brought

Antiwar Talks

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The attorney of returned prisoner-of-war Army Spec. 4 Michael Branch says the Highland Heights, Ky., man admits making anti-war broadcasts, "but only to stop the beatings."

"He tells me," said Attorney William Hagedorn of Newport, Ky., "he made several, but didn't think they were broadcast because he was crying so hard when he made the tapes."

Hagedorn also announced Thursday that he plans to go to court Monday if Branch is not released by the Army over the weekend.

Hagedorn is angry over a press conference he said was called off by the Army at Ft. Knox Wednesday. He questioned whether Branch "is a prisoner or a patient" at the Army hospital.

Tape Player Stolen

Charles Cordell, 371 John St., notified city police of the theft of a tape player and 12 tapes, valued at $120, sometime Wednesday night.

Drug Raids Made

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Fourteen persons were arrested and an undetermined quantity of narcotics were seized in a series of eight raids in the Youngstown area this morning.

Canada was the only Allied country that did not require financial aid from the United States after the Second World War.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the ordinary things you like to do which are easy for you and be happy. Improve the state of your present health. More attention to mate brings excellent results now. Show you are indeed devoted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although home duties seem boring, they are important just the same, so get them done quickly and well. Make sure that utilities are in fine running order. Don't take any chances with anything today or tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep busy at shopping, running errands, handling correspondence, chores that are difficult during busy work week. Then contact friends and relatives you have not seen in some time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan a better budget and get your financial affairs on a more practical basis. Study how to improve your property. Fun with friends in p.m. Think.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day and p.m. to improve your health and charm so you can be at your best when out socially later in the day and p.m. Budget your money wisely and do not spend too much. Avoid one who argues.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be a born humanitarian and should be given a chance to help playmates early in life with their problems so as to bring this quality to the fore early. Give good spiritual training and teach ethics early so your child does not get side-tracked and involved in using this fine quality of compassion to help entirely selfish people. Send to the right schools and the world will be much better for the birth of this youngster. Build up bodily energy through diet.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Orange Baseballs Flop In Debut

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Take it from a man who knows—Gaylord Perry—the new orange baseballs are slippery and hard to grip.

The Cleveland pitcher, who has been accused at times of throwing a spit ball, was on the mound Thursday as the gaudy, experimental balls had their coming-out party.

They must have been hard to control, for sure, because 16 runs were scored in a hitter's day that produced an 11-5 exhibition game victory for the Indians over Oakland.

"The pitchers were not able to grip it correctly," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, echoing complaints voiced by Perry and Oakland's Jim Hunter.

Kuhn, at the game to watch the use of the fancy balls recommended by A's owner Charles O. Finley, observed Cleveland's George Hendrick hit three of them out of the park.

The baseball czar decided at once that they weren't practical as is.

Finley, who incidentally wasn't on hand to watch the debut of his brain-child, originally felt that a solid orange ball would be better for the batters to see than a white one.

In Thursday's other games, the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Chicago White Sox 5-2; the Kansas City Royals trimmed the Montreal Expos 4-2; the Baltimore Orioles nipped the New York Yankees 3-2; the Atlanta Braves blanked the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0; the Chicago Cubs tripped the San Francisco Giants 9-8 in 12 innings; the New York Mets beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 and the Boston Red Sox turned back the Detroit Tigers 3-2.

Rain canceled four games—Philadelphia-Houston, Texas-Minnesota and contests involving split Milwaukee squads with Los Angeles and California.

Johnny Bench, apparently recovered from lung surgery over the winter, drove in two runs to pace Cincinnati's victory over Chicago. The Reds' most valuable catcher singled across the runs off loser Terry Forster in the fifth inning.

Wayne Simpson, a trade acquisition this past winter from Cincinnati, allowed only five hits in pitching Kansas City over Montreal in a game halted after seven innings because of darkness. Amos Otis struck a home run for the winners.

The Orioles won their game on Don Baylor's leadoff homer in the eighth off Steve Kline. The Yanks had tied the game in the seventh on Felipe Alou's two-run homer.

Gary Gentry pitched seven innings of scoreless ball as Atlanta defeated Pittsburgh. The Braves scored their winning runs in the first inning on three walks off Luke Walker, a fielder's choice and Dave Johnson's single.

Cleo James' two-out single drove home Glenn Beckert with the winning run to give the Cubs their 12-inning triumph over San Francisco. The game took almost 3½ hours to play.

Jon Matlack limited St. Louis to two hits in seven innings and the Mets scored the decisive run on a throwing error to beat the Cardinals.

Designated hitter Orlando Cepeda drove in two runs, one with an eighth-inning double, as Boston rallied for its victory over Detroit.

Dodgers' Boss Hoping To Stabilize Lineup

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Each game was an adventure for the Los Angeles Dodgers last year as they checked the line-up card to see who was playing where.

Third base was more than an adventure—pure horror, as the merry-go-round of pretenders to that position kicked grounders and threw balls that even Golden Glove first baseman Wes Parker couldn't reach.

Walter Alston, starting his 20th season as manager of the Dodgers in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, is aware of these 1972 flaws.

"I would like to start the same players each game," he said. "It would be good for the player who's playing every day."

Bill Buckner, a .319 hitter last year when he was used mostly against right-handed pitching, probably will play every day as the heir apparent to the retired Parker's job. Bill Russell is the shortstop and Willie Davis is in center field.

That leaves two outfield spots, second base, third base and catcher up for grabs, and left and right field may involve platooning.

Third base has been a Dodger enigma since Jim Gilliam, now a coach, retired. Dodger third basemen committed more than 50 errors to hurt efforts by a fine pitching staff last season.

Ken McMullen and Roy Cey weren't the culprits, however. The steady-fielding McMullen and pitcher Andy Messersmith were acquired last winter from the California Angels in exchange for five players. Cey, who has shown a booming bat in the minor leagues, has a better glove than Steve Garvey, who has been moved to the outfield after his frustrations at the hot corner.

Alston has two youngsters battling for the second base job, Lee Lacy and Dave Lopes, and two more vying for the catcher's spot, Joe Ferguson and Steve Yeager, where veterans Chris Cannizzaro and Dick Dietz also contend.

Ferguson, an impressive hitter this spring, may earn the No. 1 job ahead of the better defensive receiver, Yeager, because the Dodgers can't afford to leave someone with a hot bat on the bench.

Manny Mota, the club's leading hitter with a .323 mark last season, will share left field with Willie Crawford. Rookies Tom Paciorek and Von Joshua may be platooned in right.

The Dodgers have no moundsman resembling Sandy Koufax but, says Alton, "Our pitching staff is one of the better staffs in the league and with Messersmith it should be better."

Don Sutton, a 19-game winner last year, and 20-game winner Claude Osteen, plus Al Downing, Tommy John and Messersmith give the Dodgers five solid starters.

Messersmith, a 20-game winner for California in 1971, slipped to 8-11 when he was hurt much of last season. He's been impressive in spring games.

Lakers Open Title Defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers open defense of their National Basketball Association championship tonight with their first playoff opponent the Chicago Bulls, picked by the flip of a coin instead of the toss of a ball.

The Lakers were to have met the Bucks in Milwaukee for a pre-playoff matchup to decide the No. 1 spot in the Western Conference, since the teams finished with 60-22 records and their season series even at 3-3.

But Laker players balked, backed by the NBA Players Association, contending their contract called for only 82 games before the playoffs.

So instead playing a game, a coin was tossed and Milwaukee won the call Thursday, getting the top position, the home court advantage in the conference finals and the Golden State Warriors, fourth in the conference, as a playoff foe instead of third place Chicago.

Haldeman Aware Of Watergate?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. has told Senate investigators that presidential aide H. R. Haldeman was fully aware of the plans to wiretap Democratic national headquarters, the Baltimore Sun quotes sources as saying.

The Sun said in today's editions that Haldeman, President Nixon's chief of staff, was described not as taking an active part in planning the Watergate bugging but only of knowing about the plan.

The story was attributed to congressional sources said to be familiar with McCord's testimony before a special Senate committee investigating the break-in and wiretapping of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building last June.

The Sun said McCord told investigators that White House officials promised executive clemency for any of the seven Watergate defendants who pleaded guilty, as well as aid for their families. He would not name the officials.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has repeatedly denied that any present White House official had advance knowledge of or participated in the Watergate operation.

McCord goes before a federal judge today for sentencing for his part in the burglary-wiretapping.

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut told reporters Thursday that the Watergate incident was just a small part of the Republican espionage and sabotage against Democrats in the 1972 presidential campaign.

He said he thinks the operation was directed by someone in the White House. And he added that that official still is in the White House although he has "absolute confidence" that Nixon knew nothing about the Watergate tactics.

Weicker confirmed news reports that McCord testified he had been told by G. Gordon Liddy that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell approved the Watergate plans. Liddy, a former White House aide, was convicted with McCord of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping; five other defendants pleaded guilty.

But Weicker, a member of the special Senate committee, said "no corroborative evidence of any kind" has been offered to support what McCord testified he had been told by Liddy.

Mitchell has denied any role in the Watergate incident.

Piqua Returnee 'Invented Data'

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Air Force Maj. William Baugh of Piqua, who spent more than six years in North Vietnamese prison camps, says the torture inflicted by his captors was so bad he started inventing military information to satisfy them.

Baugh described in an interview the treatment he received after being shot down over North Vietnam on Jan. 21, 1967.

Baugh, who suffered facial injuries when downed which caused him to lose sight in his right eye, said he was taken to Hanoi and put in a shack where the interrogation began.

"My arms were tied behind my back," he said. "A Vietnamese officer came in and told me to get on a stool."

"He started quizzing me about military information, I refused and he indicated I would be punished. He said that he could make me talk."

"He said he could make me talk. Then he called in his torture man, the guy who applied the apparatus."

Baugh said the equipment consisted of screw-type wrist cuffs which were too small and arm manacles. He said his wrists were locked behind his back, cutting his circulation and pinching his nerves, and a rope was inserted behind his elbows and drawn tight, pulling his elbows together.

"Believe me, they can get them together," Baugh said. "I'm hollering and screaming at them to take them off. But the more noise you make the more trouble you're in."

"They kick you in the head and face to keep you quiet. If you're not quiet, they'll gag you."

Baugh said he underwent three such 20-minute torture sessions his first night at the prison camp.

"The third time he cinched my elbows up and used a rope and started choking me," Baugh said. "I started making up stories."

"When he came in the next time I made up another story, which seemed to work."

Baugh said as far as he knows all prisoners at the "Hanoi Hilton" camp received the same treatment.

And the same treatment existed at five other camps he was confined in during his capture, Baugh said.

Then, he said, the torture ended in October, 1969.

Baugh said he kept his mind occupied by remembering names of people, telephone numbers, capitals and states and names of U.S. presidents.

It was more than two years after his capture before he was allowed to write his first letter home. Baugh said he did not receive any mail until January, 1970.

He said the packages he received were missing articles such as cigarettes, cards and games.

Prisoners were not allowed to read, anything or have any writing implements, Baugh said, but the men improvised pens out of pieces of bamboo and ink from ground up brick or roof tile mixed with water for use in writing notes to each other.

Questions And Answers On Meat Controls Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's ceiling on meat prices is effective immediately, but retailers have until April 9 to work out the maximum prices which they cannot legally exceed.

As of that date, they will be required to post the ceiling prices on cards at least three by four feet, displayed prominently where items are sold.

Here are some questions and answers on how the ceiling will work:

Q. Is this the same as a price freeze?

A. It's not a freeze. The difference is that a freeze would keep prices where they are, while a ceiling places a limit on the top price, but not the minimum.

Q. Does that mean prices will come down?

A. They should come down slightly, and the government hopes they will come down significantly as time goes by.

Q. But it looked as if prices might be about to fall anyway. Won't this serve as a temptation for retailers to keep them at the ceiling?

A. The administration thinks not. It says that an increasing supply of meat, already in the works, will bring down prices, especially since there will be temptation for producers and processors to hold back meat in hopes of higher prices.

Q. How long will it last?

A. Indefinitely. Treasury Secretary George Shultz said it will last "until the problem is solved," meaning until prices come down.

Q. What happens if the butcher ignores the ceiling, or if he reduces the quantity and quality of meat at the ceiling price?

A. He'd be breaking the law. A nationwide enforcement network using Internal Revenue Service personnel is being organized. However, the government is counting on most people to cooperate.

Q. You've mentioned the retailer. Will only his prices be controlled?

A. The ceiling affects meat processors, meat wholesalers and meat retailers. The cattlemen and farmer are excluded. The administration says market forces will control the price at which the live animal is sold.

Q. How will the ceiling price be determined?

A. It's not the top price, but the lowest price at which 10 per cent of a particular meat item sold during the 30-day period ending March 28, starting down from the top price.

Q. What does that mean?

A. If 8 per cent of the lamb chops in a store sold for $1.85 a pound during the period and 2 per cent or more sold for $1.75 a pound, then $1.75 would be the ceiling price.

Q. What if 50 per cent sold for $1.65. Why wouldn't that be the ceiling price?

A. The administration is giving the retailer, processor and wholesaler the benefit of the doubt, assuming that it was necessary for them to charge the higher prices because of their costs, and assuming it is not unlikely their costs will return to that level. If the costs fall, then the administration is counting on them to reduce prices accordingly.

CCA Issued Permit By EPA

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA), in conjunction with the U.S. EPA, has issued six national pollutant discharge elimination system permits.

The permits and schedules of compliance were issued to Container Corporation, Circleville; Oxford Paper Company, West Carrollton; Standard Oil Company, Lima; Sun Oil Company, (Toledo Refinery), Oregon; Union Carbide, Chemicals and Plastics, Marietta; and Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corporation, Yorkville.

Ohio was one of ten states to gain interim authority on December 19 from the federal EPA to issue the permits under the provisions of the new federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972. The permits were issued before the state's authority elapsed on March 18.

The act requires cities, industries and agriculture to have permits for the discharge of wastewater. The permits specify the volume, amount, frequency, duration and strength of the discharge.

The permits were issued after public hearings were held February 22 on the six industries' applications and are effective for three years.

In addition to specifying the limits of each company's present discharge, the Ohio EPA also issued a compliance program. The compliance schedule specifies what steps the industries must take in order to achieve their final discharge levels by a certain date.

Each company must report any unauthorized spill, submit periodic operating reports and inform the Ohio EPA of any expansion in its operation.

The industries may challenge the terms and conditions of the permit by requesting a hearing from the Environmental Board of Review.

When Car Rips

Into Guardrail

A Washington C.H. man, 30-year-old Aaron Foster, escaped serious injury when he drove his car over an embankment off Route 22, just west of the Route 23 overpass, 3:50 p.m. Thursday.

Foster refused treatment for alleged back pains, according to investigating deputies Billy Huffman and J. Phillip Brown.

The officers said Foster was driving east on Route 22 when he lost control of his vehicle and went left of center for 110 feet. The car destroyed 27 feet of guard rail, continued 80 farther over an embankment and came to rest 40 feet from the road in a field.

Haldeman Aware Of Watergate?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. has told Senate investigators that presidential aide H. R. Haldeman was fully aware of the plans to wiretap Democratic national headquarters, the Baltimore Sun quotes sources as saying.

The Sun said in today's editions that Haldeman, President Nixon's chief of staff, was described not as taking an active part in planning the Watergate bugging but only of knowing about the plan.

The story was attributed to congressional sources said to be familiar with McCord's testimony before a special Senate committee investigating the break-in and wiretapping of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate building last June.

The Sun said McCord told investigators that White House officials promised executive clemency for any of the seven Watergate defendants who pleaded guilty, as well as aid for their families. He would not name the officials.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler has repeatedly denied that any present White House official had advance knowledge of or participated in the Watergate operation.

McCord goes before a federal judge today for sentencing for his part in the burglary-wiretapping.

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut told reporters Thursday that the Watergate incident was just a small part of the Republican espionage and sabotage against Democrats in the 1972 presidential campaign.

He said he thinks the operation was directed by someone in the White House. And he added that that official still is in the White House although he has "absolute confidence" that Nixon knew nothing about the Watergate tactics.

Weicker confirmed news reports that McCord testified he had been told by G. Gordon Liddy that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell approved the Watergate plans. Liddy, a former White House aide, was convicted with McCord of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping; five other defendants pleaded guilty.

But Weicker, a member of the special Senate committee, said "no corroborative evidence of any kind" has been offered to support what McCord testified he had been told by Liddy.

Mitchell has denied any role in the Watergate incident.

Piqua Returnee 'Invented Data'

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Air Force Maj. William Baugh of Piqua, who spent more than six years in North Vietnamese prison camps, says the torture inflicted by his captors was so bad he started inventing military information to satisfy them.

Baugh described in an interview the treatment he received after being shot down over North Vietnam on Jan. 21, 1967.

Baugh, who suffered facial injuries when downed which caused him to lose sight in his right eye, said he was taken to Hanoi and put in a shack where the interrogation began.

"My arms were tied behind my back," he said. "A Vietnamese officer came in and told me to get on a stool."

"He started quizzing me about military information, I refused and he indicated I would be punished. He said that he could make me talk."

"He said he could make me talk. Then he called in his torture man, the guy who applied the apparatus."

Baugh said the equipment consisted of screw-type wrist cuffs which were too small and arm manacles. He said his wrists were locked behind his back, cutting his circulation and pinching his nerves, and a rope was inserted behind his elbows and drawn tight, pulling his elbows together.

"Believe me, they can get them together," Baugh said. "I'm hollering and screaming at them to take them off. But the more noise you make the more trouble you're in."

"They kick you in the head and face to keep you quiet. If you're not quiet, they'll gag you."

Baugh said he underwent three such 20-minute torture sessions his first night at the prison camp.

"The third time he cinched my elbows up and used a rope and started choking me," Baugh said. "I started making up stories."

"When he came in the next time I made up another story, which seemed to work."

Baugh said as far as he knows all prisoners at the "Hanoi Hilton" camp received the same treatment.

And the same treatment existed at five other camps he was confined in during his capture, Baugh said.

Then, he said, the torture ended in October, 1969.

Baugh said he kept his mind occupied by remembering names of people, telephone numbers, capitals and states and names of U.S. presidents.
